Ike Heads For "Operation Friendship"

U.S., Canada, Mexico Chiefs Confer Today

President To Reach Plush West Virginia Resort This Morning

WASHINGTON, March 25 (AP)—President Eisenhower heads to-night for the plush resort area of White Sulphur Springs, W.Va., for "Operation Friendship," a two-day meeting starting tomorrow with the President of Mexico and the Prime Minister of Canada.

Eisenhower's special train was scheduled to arrive at 7:30 a.m. tomorrow at the conference site—the swank Greenbrier Hotel nestled in an Allegheny Mountain forest. There the President will be joined by Secretary of State Dulles and other U.S. diplomatic officials.

No Agenda Prepared

President Adolfo Ruiz Cortines of Mexico and Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent of Canada are expected on the scene late tomorrow afternoon. They will fly from their respective capitals to Charleston, W.Va., and then be ferried in smaller planes to White Sulphur Springs.

Ruiz Cortines will travel from Mexico City to Charleston in Eisenhower's four-engine private plane, Columbine III.

The three-power talks, to conclude Tuesday evening, are unusual in the sense that no agenda has been prepared and no international problems of any consequence confront the leaders.

The final communique quite likely will stress North American solidarity in these times of free world effort to stem the spread of Communist domination.

Ike No Stranger To Either

This will be the first time these three heads of government have met together, but Eisenhower is no stranger to either Cortines or St. Laurent.

He met Ruiz Cortines on the U.S.-Mexican border at the dedication of Falcon Dam in October, 1953. That same year he conferred with St. Laurent as the guest of the Canadian government at Ottawa.

The White House February announcement of plans for the current conference said the meetings would give the three leaders a chance to discuss matters of mutual interest and get better acquainted.

U.S. Plans New Arms Proposals

LONDON, March 25 (AP)—President Eisenhower's personal disarmament advisor was reported today to be drafting several more proposals to the new men in the Kremlin.

Harold E. Stassen, chief U.S. delegate at five-power United Nations Disarmament subcommittee talks, declined to disclose his plans.

Western diplomats, however, said Stassen seemed to be laying the groundwork for a showdown with the Russians on whether they are willing to cut the arms race after 10 years of fencing.

The subcommittee meetings will be resumed tomorrow.

For a week the Soviet delegate, Deputy Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko, has carefully examined the platel of proposals already suggested by the West. He has only asked questions, leaving the clear implication that the final decision must come from Moscow.

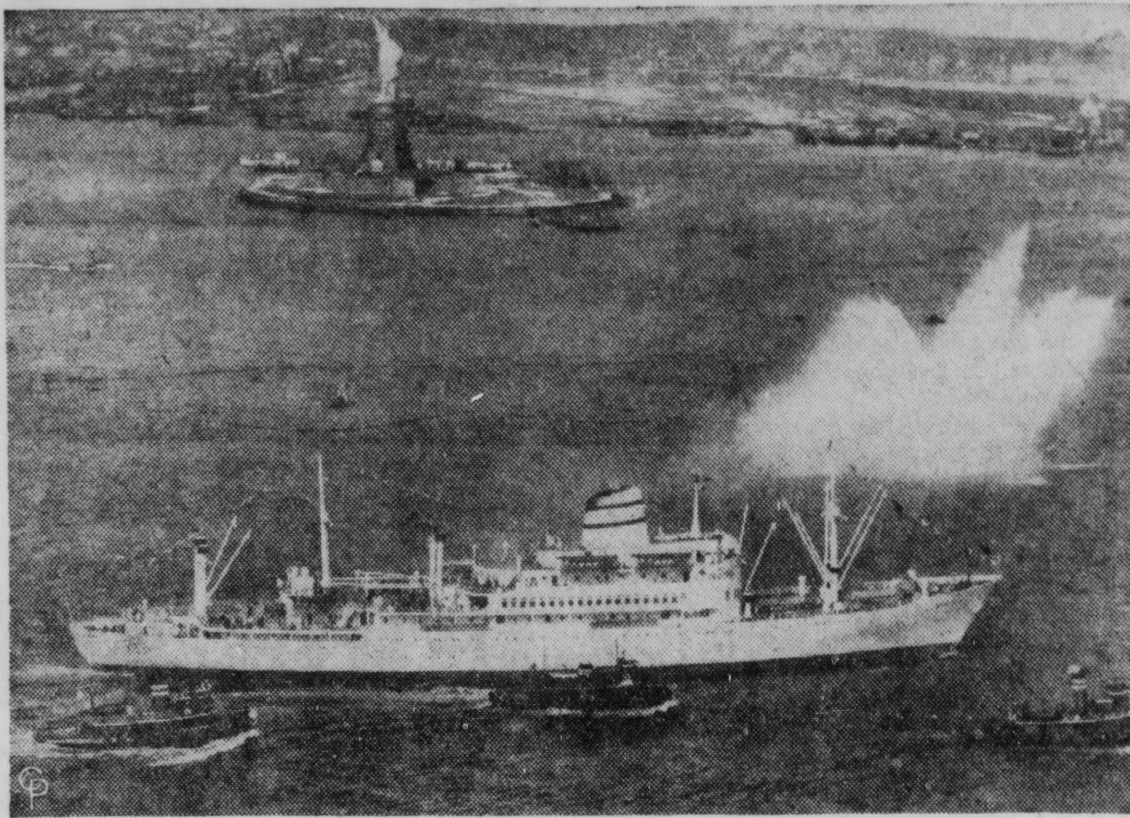

The Russians indicated before the talks opened that they hoped to capitalize on reported differences in the camp of the four Western Powers on the five-man subcommittee—the United States, Britain, France and Canada.

Adlai To Fly To Calif.

Ellender Hails Report Chandler May Enter Race

WASHINGTON, March 25 (AP)—Sen. Ellender (D-La.) said today he welcomes reports that Gov. A. B. (Happy) Chandler of Kentucky may be a late entrant in the Democratic presidential nomination contest.

"I like to see new blood come into the picture," Ellender said. "The Minnesota primary should be an invitation for a number of entrants." He added:

"Happy is a mighty fine fellow and he certainly would be more acceptable to most Southern Democrats than either Kefauver or Harriman."

Harriman "Available"

Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee now is regarded as the front-running aspirant for the Democratic nomination since his win over Adlai Stevenson, the 1952 Democratic nominee and former governor of Illinois, in the Minnesota primary last week.

That upset also has boomed the political stock of Gov. Averell Harriman of New York, who told reporters in West Palm Beach, Fla. last night that he is "available" for the nomination.

Harriman, who has been listed as "not an active candidate," repeated that he would not accept the vice presidential nomination. Ellender, more outspoken than many Southern Democrats, said the civil rights views of both Harriman and Kefauver are unacceptable to the South.

Third Party Move Possible

"I feel confident that the national convention will not go for either Kefauver or Harriman," Ellender told a reporter. "If it did there would be so much dissatisfaction in the South that a powerful third party move could develop."

Ellender and many other present senators served with Chandler when he was in the Senate from 1939 until Nov. 1, 1945. He resigned then to become high commissioner of organized baseball.

Last year Chandler made a political comeback to win election as governor of Kentucky, a post he had held before entering the Senate.

Adm. Doenitz III

Rep. Quigley, Married Man, Courts Housewives' Wrath

WASHINGTON, March 25 (AP)—Rep. Quigley (D-Pa.) today labeled "ridiculous" a plan to bring housewives to Washington at government expense to tell what sort of house they'd like to have.

Quigley, who is married and the father of four daughters, said in a statement:

"Why housing authorities... would be interested in learning what the women of this country want in a house is beyond my comprehension."

His statement was directed at a proposal by Housing Administrator Albert M. Cole to conduct a "Woman's Congress on Housing." The session would be attended by women selected from among those replying to a recent invitation

Best-Dressed List Includes Mamie And Grace Kelly

NEW YORK, March 25 (AP)—The New York Fashion Academy today again named Mrs. Mamie Eisenhower as the best dressed woman in public life.

This makes the fourth year the First Lady, hailed "as a diplomat in fashion awareness at international gatherings," has won the academy's plaudits.

The best-dressed selections included Grace Kelly, of the screen world, and Margaret Truman, from the concert stage. Both also won last year.

Winners in other fields: Society, Mrs. Robert Wood Johnson of New Brunswick, N.J.; TV, Nanette Fabray; stage, Lynn Fontanne; radio, Mrs. Edgar Bergen; author, Lilly Dache, best known as a fashion designer; hostess, Gwen Cafritz of Washington, D.C.; vocalist, Teresa Brewer; comedy, Nancy Walker; all-American ice skater, Tenley Albright; business, Eloise English; opera set, Mrs. Lauritz Melchior, and TV actress, Jacqueline Susann.

Cyprus Is Vast No-Man's Land

NICOSIA, Cyprus, March 25 (AP)—A bombing and a single shot today shattered the quiet of a rigid British curfew clamped on Cyprus to prevent violence on Greece's Independence Day.

A Greek woman was injured slightly by a bomb thrown at a military patrol in the port of Paphos, 60 miles southwest of Nicosia. The curfew will be lifted at 4 a.m. tomorrow in the rest of Cyprus, but will continue at Paphos because of a series of similar incidents.

The single shot was fired in Nicosia's Mektaxas Square. The bullet pierced the steel shutter of the Nicosia Palace Hotel bar but injured no one. Hundreds of troops and police streamed into the area looking for the curfew violator.

Most of Cyprus was a vast no-man's land. More than 160,000 Cypriots, Greek and Turk alike, were held in their homes in 15 main towns by the curfew ordered by Field Marshal Sir John Harding, the British governor.

Harding ordered the curfew, which began at 4 a.m. He said he had been advised some Greek Cypriots intended to use the Greek Independence Day as a cover for renewed violence. Greece won its independence from Turkey 135 years ago.

from Cole to write him letters telling how the modern home can be improved.

Women making the trip would be mothers "in the middle-income bracket." Uncle Sam would pay transportation costs and a $12-a-day allowance, the same as is paid to government officials on out-of-town trips. No date has been set for the proposed conference.

Quigley lambasted Cole's plan as a "contest gimmick" from which "only the box top is missing," and a sample of "Madison Avenue huckstering devices."

He said he also was pained by Cole's proposal to give the women $12 a day in expense money. Unlike most others in top government circles, Congress members get only $9, he pointed out.

Stalin Criticism Shakes British, French Parties

LONDON, March 25 (AP)—Rumblings of doubt and revolt inside the Communist parties of Britain, East Germany, Italy and Austria were plainly heard today as a result of the Kremlin's recasting the dead Stalin from a role of hero to villain.

The actual charges of the new "collective leadership" in the Kremlin against the late dictator have not been published, but reports leaking through the Iron Curtain say he is being accused of being a rabid murderer and bungler.

Letters Express Doubts

The Communist Daily Worker in London today admitted the confusion and soul-searching now going on within the party by publishing letters which openly expressed doubts about the new policy. One letter said such "somersaults" are humiliating and raised doubts among ordinary people of Communists' "moral integrity."

In the same issue the paper printed an appeal from Harry Pollitt, leader of the British Reds, to accept the new line and attempting for the first time to explain the inside of the "Stalin story."

In Rome, the anti-Communist Socialist newspaper La Giustizia quoted a "very reliable source" as saying Palmiro Togliatti, the Italian Communist party leader, had predicted his party would lose one million votes as a result of the anti-Stalin campaign.

Ulbricht Stirs Storm

In East Germany, where 5,000 Communists are attending a party congress, Heinrich Rau, a deputy premier, today condemned what he called "hysterical attacks" within the ranks against party boss Walter Ulbricht. He advised the comrades to calm down in the debate over Stalin.

Ulbricht approved the new "collective leadership" principle in a speech yesterday, but apparently because of the criticism raised about not repeat his earlier attacks on Stalin. Last week he denounced Stalin for building up a "fuehrer's cult," failing to prepare properly to meet the Hitler attack in 1941 and conducting a reign of terror among his comrades.

Democratic Strategy Session April 20-21

WASHINGTON, March 25 (AP)—Democratic leaders from all the states will gather here April 20-21 to discuss plans for the party's August convention and the fall campaign, the Democratic National Committee announced today.

The Democratic meeting will begin three days after Republican leaders wind up a similar session here.

National Chairman Paul M. Butler said the Democratic conference will end with a dinner honoring the 100th birthday of President Woodrow Wilson. Contributors of $100 to the Democratic National Committee will be guests at the affair, which will replace the usual Jefferson-Jackson dinner in Washington.

Uniontown Aid Pledged

UNIONTOWN, Pa., March 25 (AP)—Thirty-eight business firms have pledged $110,000 to help build five factories in the Uniontown area in the next four years to replace depleted coal fields. It's the result of a campaign to raise $400,000 for industrial redevelopment.

Westinghouse And UE Agree On Settlement

Five-Year Contract Accord Is Subject To Local Ratification

PITTSBURGH, March 25 (AP)—Westinghouse Electric Corp. and the United Electrical Workers Union (Ind.) today reached agreement on a five-year contract providing a minimum 25-cent-an-hour wage boost during the life of the contract. It ended a strike of some 3,200 employees in eight plants.

The agreement is subject to ratification by union locals. The UE strike of 6,000 workers at the big South Philadelphia plant is continuing, the union said.

Wage-Payment Dispute

The dispute at the South Philadelphia plant, where the company has proposed changing a wage-payment plan, will be turned over to local union officials and plant management for discussion tomorrow at Philadelphia.

The union claims the company plan would mean an average 50-cent-an-hour pay reduction for workers there.

The UE national settlement is similar to an agreement the company and AFL-CIO International Union of Electrical Workers reached last Tuesday, ending a 156-day strike at 30 other plants.

5-17 Cent Hike First Year

The UE settlement provides for wage increases of from 5 to 17 cents an hour for the first year of the agreement and from 5 to 12 cents an hour for each year of the following four years. Hourly rates under the old contract averaged $2.10.

The contract runs through Oct. 15, 1960. The national strike by the UE was in its 152nd day.

The UE pact remains the same on arbitration—and grievance procedure—the union has the right to strike over grievances. Arbitration is used only by mutual agreement.

Kefauver Sees "Square Deal" At Convention

LOS ANGELES, March 25 (AP)—Sen. Estes Kefauver said today he thinks he can avoid a repetition of his 1952 downfall at the Democratic National Convention in August.

The Tennessee, now running ahead in the pre-convention campaigning as he did four years ago, told a nationwide television audience on NBC's "Youth Wants to Know" program that he was sure "it will be a fair, open convention" and "everyone will have a chance."

Kefauver told a youthful questioner, "there were some influential people who used their power against me" in 1952. He said he has been assured that these pressures wouldn't be used this time and that he has a lot more influential backers himself.

He went on to explain that he felt he lost the presidential nomination to Adlai E. Stevenson partly because "I didn't handle myself or my delegation very well. . . . I made some mistakes in judgment that worked against me."

200 Seized In L.A. Dope Seller Roundup

LOS ANGELES, March 25 (AP)—A three-day roundup of narcotics peddlers—termed by officials the biggest in the nation's history—landed nearly 200 men and women in Los Angeles city and county jails today.

It took more than two hours for the parade of suspects—most of them alleged heroin sellers—to pass before the eyes of federal, state and local narcotics officers.

"It's the biggest dope peddler roundup in history as far as I know," Chief Walter R. Creighton of the State Bureau of Narcotics said. George R. Davis, head of the Federal Bureau of Narcotics here, agreed.

One of the first to be arrested and booked on suspicion of narcotics sale was former bantamweight boxer Keeny Teran, 24, whose ring career was interrupted by tangles with the dope laws. Teran was classed as a "major pusher" (seller) by state narcotics inspector Matthew M. O'Connor.

Arab Countries May Delay Peace Mission

Syria, Lebanon Seek Hearings

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., March 25 (AP)—Arab moves threatened today to delay a proposed Middle East peace mission by U.N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld.

The Western Powers had hoped the U.N. Security Council meeting tomorrow could pass a U.S. resolution that would get Hammarskjöld away next week on a three-week trip to London, Paris and Mideastern capitals.

But two Arab countries now refuse to go along with a Western plan to save time by limiting debate to the 11 Council members and excluding the interested outsiders, Egypt, Israel, Jordan, Lebanon and Syria.

Hearings Sought

Delegates Rafik Asha of Syria and Edward Rizk of Lebanon said they would submit letters tomorrow morning asking for a hearing.

The Lebanese government in Beirut announced it would request a month's postponement of further discussion and permission for Egypt, Jordan and Lebanon to participate in the debate.

Those four countries, among Israel's enemies in the 1948 Palestine war, have armistice agreements with her dating from 1949. A month's delay would give them time to consult one another in regard to the stand they should take on the U.S. resolution.

Survey Provided

The resolution was submitted after talks among the United States, Britain and France. It would have Hammarskjöld survey compliance with the armistice agreements and arrange measures to reduce "existing tensions" on the armistice lines.

He would be told to do this through an urgent "discussion with the parties" and the U.N. Palestine truce chief, Canadian Maj. Gen. Edson L. M. Burns, whose office is in Jerusalem.

Fishing Tragedy Claims Four Lives

MARION, Ill., March 25 (AP)—A fishing adventure ended in death last night for a father, his twin sons and a neighbor boy, when their boat overturned in Crab Orchard Lake.

Jerry Sexton, 11, the only survivor, managed to shed some of his clothing and swim ashore. The dead were Prince McSpadden, 44; Rex and Lex McSpadden, both 10; and Roy Woods, 15. All of the party were from Herrin, Ill.

A verdict of accidental drowning was returned at a coroner's inquest today.

Young Sexton said at the inquest that the quintet was in the 16-foot boat returning to shore. He said trollines were piled up in the bow of the boat and when the elder McSpadden started a motor the front end went under water.

The only survivor said McSpadden then yelled, "It looks like we are going to drown." Sexton said he kicked off his shoes and dived into the water.

Today's Chuckle

Taken aback by the unexpected gift of a small alligator, the lady put him in the bathtub and rushed out to keep an appointment. On returning she found this note from her maid:

"I'm quitting. I don't work in any house that keeps alligators. I would have told you this in advance but I didn't think the question would ever come up."

Air Force Achieves Speed Of Over 18,000 MPH In Lab

WASHINGTON, March 25 (AP)—The Air Force disclosed today it has achieved in a laboratory speeds of more than 18,000 miles an hour and temperatures 1½ times hotter than the surface of the sun.

The fantastic speeds and temperatures were created in "shock tubes"—second cousins to the wind tunnel—at the Avco Research Laboratory, Everett, Mass.

The laboratory, a unit of Avco Manufacturing Corp.'s Advanced Development Division, announced, with Air Force permission, that velocities up to 25 times the speed of sound had been recorded in several shock tubes.

The terrific speeds were accompanied by temperatures up to 15,000 degrees Fahrenheit. This intense heat would melt the tubes, were it not that they are in operation for only millions of a second at a time.

Since the top speeds exceeded the velocity planned for the space satellites which U. S. scientists hope to launch in 1957, the research makes possible study of the "interaction of satellites with the earth's atmosphere," the announcement said.

Disclosing for the first time the existence of shock tubes, the laboratory identified them as a type of cannon 100 feet long and only 4 inches in diameter—"the biggest hypersonic research device of its kind."

Eisenhower Duty Transfer Issue Debated

Integration, Farm Policy Also Bring Heated Exchanges

PHILADELPHIA, March 25 (AP)—Democratic National Chairman Paul M. Butler and GOP Chairman Leonard W. Hall clashed today over the extent to which President Eisenhower might shift some of his duties if re-elected in November.

They clashed, too, over whether Sen. Estes Kefauver's Minnesota primary victory over Adlai Stevenson constituted a defeat for Republican farm policy, and over Hall's claim the Democrats might cost the farmers a billion dollars by "stalling" on the farm bill.

And at one point, Butler told Hall he was "ashamed" of him for a reference to the school integration issue as a "Southern problem."

It all occurred on a great debate before a nationwide television audience on the Philadelphia Bulletin Forum in which the two previewed the issues of the 1956 campaign in scrappy, sometimes heated, exchanges.

No Power Delegation Asked

"The President has not asked that any powers be delegated at all," Hall replied sharply to Butler's question whether the American people can hope for successful guidance on foreign affairs if the President delegates duties to others.

Butler said the question was raised by the President on Feb. 29, in which he referred to duties which "can be done equally well by my close associates."

Hall retorted that Butler was quoting the President "out of context" and added that "the people of the United States trust Dwight D. Eisenhower" and "will believe him" and "won't believe you" when he says he can carry on in presidency.

Speaking of Kefauver's defeat of Stevenson in Minnesota, Hall told Butler, "You've got to get ready to wear a coonskin cap," a plain inference that he thought the Tennessee candidate, who wore such a headpiece in 1952, is on the road to the Democratic nomination.

Minnesota Vote Recalled

But Butler, saying the Republicans got 69½ per cent of the Minnesota vote four years ago, pointed out the two Democratic candidates got 68.3 per cent of the total primary vote this year.

This heavy Democratic vote, he said, is one of the straws in the wind pointing toward dissatisfaction over the farm policy of the Republicans, over public health, national defense and foreign policy.

Hall scoffed at this suggestion, asserting "Republicans weren't in the Minnesota primary—we were on the sidewalk watching."

The two fought over which party has done most to advance the cause of the Negro. But when Butler said he favored a Democratic plank stating that decisions of the Supreme Court should be observed by all, Hall said to put him down the same way, "for the first time I agree with Mr. Butler."

Harriman Says He's 'Available'

(By The Associated Press)
Gov. W. Averell Harriman of New York is talking more like a candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination.

Harriman now says he is "available" for the nomination. Heretofore he has insisted he was "not an active candidate," and he said last month that didn't mean he was an "inactive candidate."

Harriman's remark that he is "available," made during an airport interview, was almost overlooked in the heat of a great Sunday afternoon debate between the Democratic and Republican national chairmen.

GOP Chairman Leonard W. Hall clashed with Democratic Chairman Paul M. Butler before a nationwide CBS television audience. Meeting at the Philadelphia Bulletin Forum, the two party leaders previewed the issues of the 1956 campaign.

Harriman flew to Florida for a week's vacation Saturday, now that his legislative chores in Albany are over for the session. Arriving at West Palm Beach he told reporters:

"New York political forces have decreed that I should be available. That is my status."

Just before leaving New York for Florida Harriman had said Kefauver's defeat of Stevenson in the Minnesota primary had brought no change in his status—"not an active candidate."

Westinghouse And UE Agree On Settlement

Five-Year Contract Accord Is Subject To Local Ratification

PITTSBURGH, March 25 (AP)—Westinghouse Electric Corp. and the United Electrical Workers Union (Ind.) today reached agreement on a five-year contract providing a minimum 25-cent-an-hour wage boost during the life of the contract. It ended a strike of some 3,200 employees in eight plants.

The agreement is subject to ratification by union locals. The UE strike of 6,000 workers at the big South Philadelphia plant is continuing, the union said.

Wage-Payment Dispute

The dispute at the South Philadelphia plant, where the company has proposed changing a wage-payment plan, will be turned over to local union officials and plant management for discussion tomorrow at Philadelphia.

The union claims the company plan would mean an average 50-cent-an-hour pay reduction for workers there.

The UE national settlement is similar to an agreement the company and AFL-CIO International Union of Electrical Workers reached last Tuesday, ending a 156-day strike at 30 other plants.

Arab Countries May Delay Peace Mission

Syria, Lebanon Seek Hearings

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., March 25 (AP)—Arab moves threatened today to delay a proposed Middle East peace mission by U.N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld.

The Western Powers had hoped the U.N. Security Council meeting tomorrow could pass a U.S. resolution that would get Hammarskjöld away next week on a three-week trip to London, Paris and Mediterranean capitals.

But two Arab countries now refuse to go along with a Western plan to save time by limiting debate to the 11 Council members and excluding the interested outsiders, Egypt, Israel, Jordan, Lebanon and Syria.

Hearings Sought

Delegates Rafik Asha of Syria and Edward Rizk of Lebanon said they would submit letters tomorrow morning asking for a hearing.

The Lebanese government in Beirut announced it would request a month's postponement of further discussion and permission for Egypt, Jordan and Lebanon to participate in the debate.

Those four countries, among Israel's enemies in the 1948 Palestine war, have armistice agreements with her dating from 1949. A month's delay would give them time to consult one another in regard to the stand they should take on the U.S. resolution.

Survey Provided

The resolution was submitted after talks among the United States, Britain and France. It would have Hammarskjöld survey compliance with the armistice agreements and arrange measures to reduce "existing tensions" on the armistice lines.

He would be told to do this through an urgent "discussion with the parties" and the U.N. Palestine truce chief, Canadian Maj. Gen. Edson L. M. Burns, whose office is in Jerusalem.

Fishing Tragedy Claims Four Lives

MARION, Ill., March 25 (AP)—A fishing adventure ended in death last night for a father, his twin sons and a neighbor boy, when their boat overturned in Crab Orchard Lake.

Jerry Sexton, 11, the only survivor, managed to shed some of his clothing and swim ashore. The dead were Prince McSpadden, 44; Rex and Lex McSpadden, both 10; and Roy Woodis, 15. All of the party were from Herrin, Ill.

A verdict of accidental drowning was returned at a coroner's inquest today.

Young Sexton said at the inquest that the quintet was in the 16-foot boat returning to shore. He said the boat was piled up in the bow of the boat and when the elder McSpadden started a motor the front end went under water.

The only survivor said McSpadden then yelled, "It looks like we are going to drown." Sexton said he kicked off his shoes and dived into the water.

Taken aback by the unexpected gift of a small alligator, the lady put him in the bathtub and rushed out to keep an appointment. On returning she found this note from her maid:

"I'm quitting. I don't work in any house that keeps alligators. I would have told you this in advance but I didn't think the question would ever come up."

WICHITA, Kan., March 25 (AP)—A 28-year-old man plunged 12 floors to his death in downtown Wichita today.

Don E. Ferguson ended his life by jumping from the 16th floor of the Allis Hotel to the roof of the third floor. He leaped just as police forced open his hotel room door and rushed toward him.

200 Seized In L.A. Dope Seller Roundup

LOS ANGELES, March 25 (AP)—A three-day roundup of narcotics peddlers—termed by officials the biggest in the nation's history—landed nearly 200 men and women in Los Angeles city and county jails today.

It took more than two hours for the parade of suspects—most of them alleged heroin sellers—to pass before the eyes of federal, state and local narcotics officers.

"It's the biggest dope peddler roundup in history as far as I know," Chief Walter R. Creighton of the State Bureau of Narcotics said. George R. Davis, head of the Federal Bureau of Narcotics here, agreed.

One of the first to be arrested and booked on suspicion of narcotics sale was former bantamweight boxer Keeny Teran, 24, whose ring career was interrupted by tangles with the dope laws. Teran was classed as a "major pusher" (seller) by state narcotics Inspector Matthew M. O'Connor.

Eisenhower Duty Transfer Issue Debated

Integration, Farm Policy Also Bring Heated Exchanges

PHILADELPHIA, March 25 (AP)—Democratic National Chairman Paul M. Butler and GOP Chairman Leonard W. Hall clashed today over the extent to which President Eisenhower might shift some of his duties if re-elected in November.

They clashed, too, over whether Sen. Estes Kefauver's Minnesota primary victory over Adlai Stevenson constituted a defeat for Republican farm policy, and over Hall's claim the Democrats might cost the farmers a billion dollars by "stalling" on the farm bill.

And at one point, Butler told Hall he was "ashamed" of him for a reference to the school integration issue as a "Southern problem."

It all occurred on a great debate before a nationwide television audience on the Philadelphia Bulletin Forum in which the two previewed the issues of the 1956 campaign in scrappy, sometimes heated, exchanges.

No Power Delegation Asked

"The President has not asked that any powers be delegated at all," Hall replied sharply to Butler's question whether the American people can hope for successful guidance on foreign affairs if the President delegates duties to others.

Butler said the question was raised by the President on Feb. 29, in which he referred to duties which "can be done equally well by my close associates."

Hall retorted that Butler was quoting the President "out of context" and added that "the people of the United States trust Dwight D. Eisenhower" and "will believe him" and "won't believe you" when he says he can carry on in presidency.

Speaking of Kefauver's defeat of Stevenson in Minnesota, Hall told Butler, "You've got to get ready to wear a coonskin cap," a plain inference that he thought the Tennessee candidate, who wore such a headpiece in 1952, is on the road to the Democratic nomination.

Minnesota Vote Recalled

But Butler, saying the Republicans got 69½ per cent of the Minnesota vote four years ago, pointed out the two Democratic candidates got 68.3 per cent of the total primary vote this year.

This heavy Democratic vote, he said, is one of the straws in the wind pointing toward dissatisfaction over the farm policy of the Republicans, over public health, national defense and foreign policy.

Hall scoffed at this suggestion, asserting "Republicans weren't in the Minnesota primary—we were on the sidewalk watching."

The two fought over which party has done most to advance the cause of the Negro. But when Butler said he favored a Democratic plank stating that decisions of the Supreme Court should be observed by all, Hall said to put him down the same way, "for the first time I agree with Mr. Butler."

Harriman Says He's 'Available'

(By The Associated Press)

Gov. W. Averell Harriman of New York is talking more like a candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination.

Harriman now says he is "available" for the nomination. Heretofore he has insisted he was "not an active candidate," and he said last month that didn't mean he was an "inactive candidate."

Harriman's remark that he is "available," made during an airport interview, was almost overlooked in the heat of a great Sunday afternoon debate between the Democratic and Republican national chairmen.

GOP Chairman Leonard W. Hall clashed with Democratic Chairman Paul M. Butler before a nationwide CBS television audience. Meeting at the Philadelphia Bulletin Forum, the two party leaders previewed the issues of the 1956 campaign.

Harriman flew to Florida for a week's vacation Saturday, now that his legislative chores in Albany are over for the session. Arriving at West Palm Beach he told reporters:

"New York political forces have decreed that I should be available. That is my status."

Just before leaving New York for Florida Harriman had said Kefauver's defeat of Stevenson in the Minnesota primary had brought no change in his status—"not an active candidate."

Soviets To Bid For World Routes With New Jetliner

MOSCOW, March 25 (AP)—The Soviet government took the wraps off many of the secrets of its big new jet airliner today. With fanfare, the Russians announced they are prepared to compete with other nations on international air routes.

A. N. Tupolev, the famous aircraft designer, in an interview published by the leading Moscow papers, said his giant branchchild, the TU104, has gone into mass production.

Along with the interview were published photographs of the sleek, twin-jet aircraft which carried the Soviet security chief, Ivan Serov, to London to prepare the way for the visit of Soviet Premier Bulganin and Communist party boss Khrushchev.

The plane created a sensation among some aviation writers in the British capital. They pointed out it was bigger and probably faster than the Comet III, Britain's projected entry into the commercial jet field, while U.S. commercial jets are still years in the future. There were also some critical comments on the plane.

Diplomatic observers said the Soviet Union probably intends to use the TU104 to compete with Western nations in international aviation sales. They doubted that the Russians would try to sell the plane to leading Western nations. In his interview, Tupolev said the TU104 has an air-conditioned, pressurized cabin, can fly 2,000 miles nonstop, cruise at 500 miles per hour, maintain an altitude of 33,000 feet and carry 50 passengers and baggage in comfort or 70 passengers under tourist-type accommodations. It carries a crew of six.

Frigid Weather Hits Peach Crop

(By The Associated Press)

Ice box weather held fast along the Atlantic Coast Sunday extending as far south as the Carolina-Georgia peach belt.

The big freeze of March 20-21 already had heavily damaged most orchards. Sunday's frost further hurt the crop and even worse was expected as the Weather Bureau said the cold would continue.

An early morning low of 25 degrees was recorded at Anderson, S.C., and Raleigh, N.C. Temperatures dropped to 26 at Athens, Ga., 27 at Winston-Salem, N.C., and 29 at Greenville and Columbia, S.C.

Farther north temperatures in the 30s prevented any appreciable melting of Saturday's snow which fell on top of much of the mammoth fall of the previous weekend.

West of the Appalachians the country enjoyed a warming trend. The Atlanta Weather Bureau forecast early morning temperatures in the mid and high 20s and low 30s—well within the peach damage danger zone—for all the Carolinas and Georgia again Monday. Frost again was expected.

Church Members' 10 Years Of Labor Goes Up In Smoke

MAGNOLIA, N.J., March 25 (AP)—Ten years of labor by the congregation of Mt. Olivet Baptist church went up in smoke today.

The building, converted from a rambling, two-story frame structure to a church and community center with the congregation doing all the work, was completely destroyed.

The blaze broke out just before Sunday school classes were to have begun. No one was injured.

The Rev. John H. Hampton, pastor, said he could not even guess the value of the "hard toil and handiwork" contributed by his flock.

Witness To Boys' Slaying Found

CHICAGO, March 25 (AP)—A silent witness has told police he saw a fight the night before the slaying of three Chicago schoolboys was discovered. He said it was close to the spot where their nude bodies were found.

Police said Herman Rohlfes, 52, a deaf mute, told them he saw the bodies in the shallow forest preserve depression several hours before a salesman spotted them and reported them to police.

Rohlfes, using sign language—some remembered from his early school days and some crude signs he worked out with his family on his own—conveyed only fragmentary details, according to Police Lt. Michael Spiotto. But he repeated them often during a six-hour interview yesterday in which two specialists in sign language helped.

Spiotto said that Rohlfes, who slept with his brother, Edward, 47, in a pickup truck the night of Oct. 17, last year, a few rods from where the bodies were found next day, related that during the night he saw one person hit another on the head. He did not know who they were.

Edward, who was questioned extensively shortly after the killings were discovered, told police that he slept heavily and had seen nothing unusual. He said he was "astounded" at Herman's revelations, and that he believed his brother was telling the truth.

McKeldin Raps Immigration Act

BALTIMORE, March 25 (AP)—Gov. McKeldin said today the McCarran-Walter Immigration Act barred from the United States "many of those—indeed, most of those—who seek haven here from the persecution of tyrants, including persecution against religion."

Speaking on Maryland Day, 322nd anniversary of the founding of the "Free State" by Leonard Calvert's settlers, McKeldin said, "primarily our province was a haven for persecuted Catholics—but there was then no McCarran-Walter Act here."

McKeldin termed the act a "repudiation of the basic American tradition of freedom and opportunity and of faith in the individual. It is a retreat from the ideal of America as a haven for the oppressed."

He said the state, which passed a religious toleration act in 1649, is "the birthplace of religious understanding among people." He went on to say Maryland now "has taken a place of leadership in the advancement of racial understanding under the supreme law of the land—the Constitution of the United States and its interpretation by the Supreme Court."

"And when the full story is written of these stirring and significant years in the progress of American civilization, much credit must be given to the Catholic Church for its unswerving devotion to the law and to the brotherhood of man even in those areas of the nation where racial prejudices long had been accepted as a way of life."

He said the state, which passed a religious toleration act in 1649, is "the birthplace of religious understanding among people." He went on to say Maryland now "has taken a place of leadership in the advancement of racial understanding under the supreme law of the land—the Constitution of the United States and its interpretation by the Supreme Court."

"And when the full story is written of these stirring and significant years in the progress of American civilization, much credit must be given to the Catholic Church for its unswerving devotion to the law and to the brotherhood of man even in those areas of the nation where racial prejudices long had been accepted as a way of life."

Court Probates Wills Of Three

Wills of three persons have been probated in Allegany County Orphans Court.

The last testament of George Watson Cooper of Valley Road, who died March 13 at the age of 86, made minor cash bequests to his grandchildren and all the rest of his estate equally to his three children, Harvey M. Cooper, Spring Gap; Effie V. M. Ellsworth, this city; and Georgia D. Liller, Valley Road. Cooper qualified as executor of the estate under a $7,000 bond. The will was dated August 16, 1955.

Also probated was the will of George E. McDonald of Cresaptown, who died March 19 at the age of 84. A son, James E. Mc-Donald Vocke Road, qualified as executor under a $100 bond. McDonald left one-third of his estate to his widow, Mrs. Sarah McDonald, and the other two-thirds was divided equally among five children, James McDonald, William McDonald, Cresaptown; Betty May McDonald Brant, this city; Regina Friend, Cresaptown; and Pansy Stewart, Round Hill, Va. The will was dated June 30, 1950.

The will of Catherine Stevenson of Lonaconing named her brother-in-law, Daniel Stakem of Lonaconing as executor. He qualified under a $200 bond. Virtually all of her estate except a few small cash bequests was left to her sister, Edith S. Stakem. The will was dated February 1947.

Judge Sloan Inducts Two New Kiwanians

Former Judge D. Lindley Sloan, who was the first president of the Cumberland Kiwanis Club when it was organized in 1924, inducted two new members into membership.

Judge Sloan reminded the new Kiwanians that regular attendance at the Thursday luncheon meetings should be a part of their club activities. The new members are James H. Fortner, new physical director at Central YMCA, and Joseph James Celia, training director for the new Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company plant here.

It's not as long a road back as you think from neglect to symmetry again.

Secrets Of Charm by John Robert Powers

Toner-Uppers For The Neglected Figure

The well-disciplined and properly cared for figure never marks time. Grace and beauty are all it suggests to the beholder at forty-plus as well as at twenty, and this is what nature intended for you. There never has been reason in nature for growing out of the shape you were blessed with at first, full maturity. You should both weigh and measure what you were at your best for the rest of your life.

But what if you don't? It isn't as easy to regain a good figure as it would have been to keep it, but it's probably easier than you think. Diet must be part of the program if overweight is involved, as it usually is. Then exercise must play its part because in no other way can you strengthen muscles and firm flesh. If you haven't been exercising for some time, start with this general toner-upper routine:

Lie flat on your back on the floor and bend both knees so that your feet rest on the floor. Pull your abdominal muscles in hard until you can make the small of your back touch the floor. Holding this position, take five deep breaths. Relax and repeat five times. Increase gradually to twenty-five times.

Keep at this for several days before tackling anything else because a too strenuous beginning does more harm than good. Then add this second routine to the first:

Lie flat on your back with your legs raised straight up. Very, very slowly lower both until you feel the small of your back begin to arch. Then, immediately return your legs to the starting position and repeat. Three times are enough at first, but keep at it until you can do the exercise fifteen times in succession.

Historical Committee Will Meet Tuesday

The Cumberland Historical Committee will hold its first meeting in City Hall Tuesday at 10 a. m. Mayor Roy W. Eves announced yesterday.

He said the meeting was called by Harry I. Stegmaier, coordinator for the committee.

Five Divorces Granted In Circuit Court

Five divorces have been granted in Allegany County Circuit Court. Edith Thelma Martin obtained a divorce from George Oliver Martin and was granted permission to resume her maiden name of Edith Thelma Evans. Alice M. Fry was granted a divorce from Earl Fry.

Mary F. Doman obtained a divorce from Wilbert T. Doman and resumed use of her maiden name of Mary F. Rexroad. George L. Kniernem was granted a divorce from Anna Mary Kniernem. Allene Virginia Jones was awarded a divorce decree from Bernard Marvin Jones and was granted custody of one of their three children. The husband obtained custody of the other two.

Man Gets Year For Assaulting His Wife

Charles Edward Rockwell, 56-year-old unemployed father of five children, yesterday was sentenced to a year in the Maryland House of Correction for assaulting his wife, Mrs. Ruth N. Rockwell, Friday afternoon at their home on Polish Mountain.

Hearing Is Slated In Area Burglary

Kenneth Cecil Weicht, 23, of Flintstone, will be given a preliminary hearing in Trial Magistrate's Court this week on a charge of breaking and entering and burglary of the service station and store owned by Orville Blubaugh. He is confined in Allegany County Jail, according to Sgt. William F. Baker, criminal investigator of the Maryland State Police, who said Weicht was taken into custody following a probe of the burglary.

The store is located at the western foot of Martin's Mountain on U. S. Route 40, six miles east of here.

The officer stated that entrance to the building was gained by breaking a glass in the front door. Taken from the store were four wrist watches, a table model radio, a flashlight, pen knives, cigarettes and assorted merchandise. The value of the stolen articles was placed at $150 by Sgt. Baker.

The establishment was broken into sometime after midnight March 11.

Sgt. Baker said Weicht has been involved in two other larceny cases in recent years. He is a plasterer by trade.

If there are five rooms in a boarding house, it can be called a hotel.

Garrett Board Files Answer To Complaint

OAKLAND—An answer has been filed by the Garrett County Board of Commissioners in Circuit Court to a bill of complaint of the Board of Election Supervisors concerning the purchase of voting machines.

The court action stems from a dispute over the purchase of 36 voting machines. The Election Board officials claimed the commissioners exceeded their authority in approving the purchase of devices from the Shoup Voting Machine Corporation.

The Election Board had voted to buy the 36 devices from the Automatic Voting Machine Company. The county board refused to approve this move but voted in favor of Shoup.

The reply denies that under provisions of the code the Board of Supervisors has sole power to make a contract for acquiring the voting machines since the Board of Supervisors must first obtain approval of the Board of County Commissioners and then acting jointly with the board, before any purchase can be made. The commissioners declare they had not attempted to purchase or enter into any agreement with any concern for purchase of voting machines.

The commissioners also deny that any bona fide contention exists between the boards since the complainants admit in their bill of complaint that any purchase of voting machines must be made with the approval of the Board of County Commissioners and be purchased upon such terms as agreed to by the Board of County Commissioners, and that the commissioners have approved the purchase of 36 manual type voting machines from the Automatic company, but have approved purchase of 36 manual type voting machines from the Shoup company.

The answer further declares the County Commissioners have endeavored to cooperate with the supervisors of election and acquire voting machines but that William L. Gibson and Francis W. Sanders of the Election Board have acted in an arbitrary, capricious and unreasonable manner and have refused to purchase 36 manual type voting machines from the Shoup corporation as approved by the Board of County Commissioners. It further said that the machines of the Shoup corporation were approved by the County Commissioners as that corporation had submitted the low bid.

Hoover Commission Still Pointing Way

In the year that has elapsed since the second Hoover Commission on Government Re-organization submitted its 362 recommendations, 16 per cent of them have been adopted. This leaves 84 per cent still to be acted upon. It appears that in some cases super-cautious officials have delayed action, but some pressure is now being exerted.

At a recent meeting held in Washington, friends of the proposals were told that the remaining recommendations are under study and that the next few months will see legislation offered to put them into effect.

The prediction was made that with the support of the people and Congress, a substantial part of the changes—which are estimated to incorporate savings aggregating $5.5 billion—will be achieved.

At the meeting, former President Hoover made another recommendation which, because of its obvious possibilities toward governmental efficiency and economy, merits close examination. Mr. Hoover risked being charged with advocating a return to the spoils system when he urged that a president should have 2,000 policy-making (non civil service) jobs available for filling. The purpose: To get away from the deadwood he currently must work with as a result of the seniority system in the civil service.

Pointing out that 2,000 employees represent only one-tenth of one per cent of the workers presently under civil service, Mr. Hoover declared that a good top executive should be able to save 10 times his pay. To attract able men of this type to the government service, he asserted that there should be as many as 6,100 executives in federal posts earning $20,000 a year or more—instead of the 633 now on the payroll.

The government replaces an average of 25 per cent of its 2.3 million employees every year. The cost of training replacements, and their salaries while learning, are figured at $1,500 for each new worker. It is in this area that Mr. Hoover is confident considerable savings are possible.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

They Can't Be Restored

The patient is dead. In the autopsy they found a sponge inside him. The fault was not the surgeon's; it was blamed on the nurse who did not count the sponges carefully. Now that we know why the patient died and who is responsible, will that bring him back to life?

Khrushchev's apology for 20,000,000 or some such figure who were starved to death in his native Ukraine does not help those who starved to death. They are dead and while they were being exterminated there is no record of Khrushchev or Malenkov having said one word of protest. In fact, Khrushchev was the hatchet man. True, had they protested, they might have been killed but history tells of many noble figures who stood before the cannons of tyranny and shouted, "Give me liberty or give me death."

If Khrushchev wanted to be convincing that this is a changed world and that better days have come, why does he not free the millions of so-called political prisoners, many of them of the middle and intellectual classes of the satellite countries who have been taken from their homes and families, deprived of their careers, buried in vast prison camps where they are engaged in slave labor? True, most of them were picked up by order of Beria, who acted for Stalin, whose object was to destroy any kind of independent leadership among the satellites. Many—in fact, most—of these prisoners were not charged, were never tried. They were simply picked up and moved to change the population pattern of an area.

Beria is dead. Anyone can kick his name around. It has no meaning. Khrushchev and his colleagues on the Presidium are alive. They have tremendous powers. They can release these poor souls from camps that are as wicked, if not worse, than any that Hitler's crew of madmen conceived. As long as these innocent men and women remain in these camps, Khrushchev's tears (four times he wept during his speech) make no impression. He can free those whose only crime has been that they were born in good families. And if the plan is to impress the British with Khrushchev's virtues, it can only be hoped that there will be those in Britain who will ask about these prisoners.

Let us not be confused by all this change of heart. Malenkov, for instance, was Stalin's secretary. He was the man who carried out Stalin's orders. He was named by Stalin as his heir. While Stalin lived, he was a man of extraordinary powers. He, as a member of the Presidium, is still a man of extraordinary powers. Are we to be told that the same man who carried out the madman's orders did not know that the madman was mad? What is Malenkov's excuse for carrying out Stalin's sadistic orders? He could have refused. He could have committed suicide. What is his moral basis for living, he who transmitted the orders to murder and kill?

And so, we are to turn a page. For nearly 30 years, the entire human race has witnessed and suffered from the schemes and tricks and obscenities of a madman entrenched in power. Against the evils he created, every nation has had to establish costly protections and defenses. Now, we are simply to turn a page in the book of history and say, it is all over because Khrushchev and Malenkov say that it is all over. But neither of them has taken a single step to re-establish law and justice in his own country or assure the world that the onward march of the empire has been halted and that nations can live in peace. All the talk about the Geneva spirit has been accompanied by a blatant anti-Americanism encouraged by Nehru and his Babu, Krishna Menon.

As Khrushchev and Bulganin cursed and condemned the British a month ago, so they now fawn on the British. What kind of people are these who curse one day and lickspittle the next? Realists, some call them. Men without character, opportunists, triflers with other people's lives, would be a better description. Those who believe that a change has come over Russia need to present better proof than Khrushchev's speech denouncing Stalin. What is needed is a record of deeds, not of friendly speeches interlarded with tears. Not one deed of friendship or decency is on the record.

Dramatic Moment At The Democratic Homestead

Soviet Goals Unchanged Despite Blasts At Stalin

WASHINGTON.

For the past week or so, every Western intelligence specialist has been working overtime analyzing the meaning of the Kremlin's denunciation of Joseph Stalin. By now, they have had time to digest the facts, and to reach conclusions.

Particular attention has been paid to the contents of the official Kremlin letter on Stalin, even now being read to hushed gatherings of Communist party members all over the Soviet Union. In some ways, the letter is more important than party boss Nikita Khrushchev's previous attack on Stalin. It represents the basic indictment of Stalin which the Kremlin is presenting to the Communist elite, and will no doubt soon present to the Soviet people and the world.

Four Basic Points

As far as is known, the complete text of this historic document is not yet available in the West. But its four basic points have been cabled to Washington and London. They are as follows:

First, Stalin's forced collectivization policy unnecessarily alienated the peasantry.

Second, the "doctor's plot" was fabricated by Stalin as the prelude to another general blood purge of Soviet officials.

Third, Stalin undermined Soviet military strength before the war, when he caused 5,000 Soviet officers to be executed.

Fourth, Stalin bungled the conduct of the war. Specifically, when he failed to heed the advice of his general staff at the time of the battle of the Kharkov Bulge, he was personally responsible for the destruction of 400,000 Soviet troops.

The letter is obviously more significant for what it omits than for what it includes. Stalin is attacked for the way he forced collectivization, not collectivization itself. He is not criticized for instituting the system of forced labor, for brutally depressing the standard of living, or for establishing the secret police. Nor is he attacked for such acts of foreign policy as the seizure of the Baltic states, the forced communization of the satellites, or the Korean War.

No Real Shift

The attack on Stalin represents, in short, no real shift from Stalinist doctrine and objectives. It implies only a change in methods. It also constitutes a sort of public promise to the bureaucracy, the Army elite, and the peasant, that they will not again be blindly purged, hounded to death, or starved. It certainly does not constitute a promise of the right of dissent, a fact underlined by the efficient repression of the riots in the Georgia Republic.

On this interpretation the best judges in Washington, London, and Moscow, are agreed. But this does not answer the question: Why was Stalin attacked frontally, and at this particular time?

The simplest answer is that the Soviet rulers have behaved like the children of a tyrannical and brutish parent, afraid for a long

How It Happened

By Arthur "Bugs" Baer

Arthur "Bugs" Baer is the originator of some of America's most often repeated sayings. In the absence of his regular column—"Bearing Down on the News"—because of his illness, The Cumberland News is presenting Baer's own explanations of how he came to coin some of the more famous of his sayings.

"Thaw shot the wrong architect." Every time a new theater, movie palace or exotic night club is dedicated there is always one character who shows up with the Olsen (Klieg) lights.

He waits for an appropriate moment when there's a lull in the foyer cackling and says: "Thaw shot the wrong architect."

I have heard it at the Radio City Music Hall, Roxy's on Seventh Avenue and earlier at the Capital Theater. I've heard it at the opening of the ziegfeld theater on Sixth Avenue and it is now being scaled down for cafeterias and supermarkets.

I know this is going to create a lot of comment and adverse criticism, but a man lying on a hospital bed who has been in the valley of the shadows and heard the beating of sable winds has a right to claim his own.

Most of my wisecracks became immediate currency and when they stop stealing them I'll know that I have lost my touch.

"Thaw shot the wrong architect" was born in the lobby of the first Broadway cinema palace. It referred to the slaying of architect Stanford White by Harry Thaw. It was more years ago than you'd care to pay taxes on, but every time a new theater is opened it bobs up again like a cork in a fish hatchery.

There is naturally no recompense connected with these plagiarisms because except in rare instances, they are thrown-aways at cocktail parties and round tables where the intellectuals nod their pointed heads.

Most Important Senate Business Is Election Contribution Reform

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — Probably the two most important pieces of unfinished business before the U. S. Senate today are:

1. The election reform bill regulating campaign contributions, and
2. The investigation of these contributions in connection with the recent gas bill battle.

Regarding the first, Sen. Lyndon Johnson, the able and powerful Democratic leader, does not want to record contributions to primary elections. Regarding the second, Mr. Johnson has adroitly maneuvered any investigation of the gas lobby out of the hands of Senator Hennings (D., Mo.) who planned a forthright probe, into the hands of a diluted and, so far, inactive Senate Committee.

In view of the importance of these two moves, it becomes important to examine the past relations of Senator Johnson with some of the most potent figures in the natural gas industry, including Brown and Root, the big Texas contractors who purchased the Big Inch and Little Inch pipelines from the government, and now operate them as Texas Eastern pipeline; and who also own Texas Eastern Production, producers of gas and oil.

Brown and Root have been the heaviest backers of Lyndon Johnson during his political career. He has used their private airplane even during the gas debate, to fly back to Texas. It was at the Middleburg, Va., home of George Brown that he suffered a heart attack last summer, and he visited at the Brown home on several weekends during the gas battle.

Brown and Root continue to be active in Washington and elsewhere, politically and otherwise. They are an important part of the contracting combine that got a billion-dollar contract to build U. S. naval and air bases in Spain.

Power In Texas

And in Texas last month, their close friend Lt. Gov. Ben Ramsey was called before a state grand jury to answer questions about contributions to his own political campaign. Vernon Sanford, of the Texas Press Association, who handled some of Ramsey's advertising, was indicted. Ramsey, who was defended by Brown and Root's attorney, Everett Looney, was not indicted.

It was Senator Johnson who, last year, arranged for Lt. Gov. Ramsey to be Democratic national committeeman. At that time, Ramsey was considered Brown and Root's probable candidate for governor. Since the grand jury was called, he is not considered a likely candidate.

In view of this far-flung activity by one of the most powerful companies in the South, and in view of Senator Johnson's eloquent and oft-repeated views on the gas-lobby probe and on political contributions, it is important to examine Brown and Root's contributions to the leader of the Democratic party in the Senate and one of the most powerful figures in Washington.

Fortunately for the public, a record of Brown and Root's activities for Johnson has been carefully collected by the Internal Revenue Bureau. It made a thorough investigation of Brown and Root's taxes — until, suddenly, it was stopped.

FDR Stops Probe

It was stopped by President Roosevelt on January 14, 1944, after Lyndon Johnson, then a congressman, had called on Roosevelt January 13, in company with Alvin Wirtz, attorney for Brown and Root — former undersecretary of the interior.

Roosevelt summoned Elmer Irey, assistant secretary of the treasury at 10 a. m., January 14, and on January 17, three days later, a special agent from Atlanta, Ga., was sent to Texas to quietly close the entire Brown and Root tax investigation.

I have recently obtained photostat copies of approximately 1,000 Treasury Department reports, letters, and exhibits in the Brown and Root-Lyndon Johnson case. They are in a safe deposit box, available to any authorized Senate committee or any editor for personal inspection.

They tell a significant story and shed particular light on why Senator Johnson is not interested in having the public know about political contributions to primaries or having a Senate committee dig too deep into the gas lobby.

Senator Johnson has been confronted with the evidence in this case. His chief explanation is that ex-Gov. W. Lee O'Daniel, against whom Johnson was running for the Senate at the time, stirred up the tax probe of Brown and Root. Johnson admits that he called on President Roosevelt on January 13—it was a matter of newspaper record at that time—but claims he did not discuss the Brown and Root tax matter. The Treasury records give overwhelming testimony to the contrary, however.

Repeated efforts were made to reach George Brown of Brown and Root, but he did not take the telephone calls.

Runabout Contributions

The records of Internal Revenue show that one device used to finance the Johnson campaign was to make out checks to employees of Victoria Gravel Company, a Brown and Root subsidiary, then use part of that money for campaign expenses.

For instance, on May 26, 1941, $5,000 was paid to J. O. Corwin Jr., by Victoria Gravel, and charged off as a business expense. Corwin took the check to Austin, home town of Lyndon Johnson, cashed it, and later stated under oath to Internal Revenue agents that he had mailed $2,500 of the money to Lyndon Johnson's campaign headquarters.

In another case, Victoria Gravel Company made out a check for $2,500 to Randolph Mills, an employee. He deposited it in his own bank on the same day, then withdrew it and turned it over to J. Frank Jungman, finance chairman of Johnson's campaign in Houston. Records of the bank, when checked by Internal Revenue agents, showed it in the Second National Bank of Houston in the name of the Lyndon Johnson Club.

A long list of similar withdrawals were either proved or in the process of investigation when the heat was applied in Washington. In the end, the Brown and Root tax liability, previously estimated at $1,062,184.87 with a fraud penalty of $331,092.45, was scaled down and settled for $372,000.

Shorter Work-Week

By Roger Babson

BABSON PARK, Mass.—Today's news features on automatic factories, cheap atomic power, and political uncertainties are grist for the labor unions. Their leaders are saying these things will cause unemployment and that the only cure for unemployment is a shorter work-week. Talk is of a 30-hour week; but my guess is the first move will be to a 36-hour week—then a 32-hour week.

What About Automatic Factories?

Factories have constantly become more automatic for the past 50 years. The great advance, however, has come with the development of electronics. Some industries, such as the oil-refining industry, have already become 80 per cent automatic; it has had no unemployment and is paying the highest wages ever. Union labor leaders cannot yet show that the automatic factory is causing unemployment.

In the long run, automation may bring a shorter work-week; but the change will be slow. The rebuilding of a manufacturing plant to be self-operating is very expensive. Thousands of consolidations must take place before such revolutionary changes will come about. There, however, will be more opportunities for new companies which can start from the ground up with the very latest automatic machinery. However, my chief purpose this week is to suggest certain industries which should definitely benefit from a shorter work-week.

Leisure Beneficiaries

Best known is Spalding (A. G.) & Bros., one of the largest manufacturers of baseball, basketball, football, golf, tennis, and skiing products. Headquarters in Chicopee, Mass. Last year their stock paid 50 cents (and 5 per cent stock) and now sells at about $19.

Brunswick-Baile-Collender, largest manufacturer of bowling alleys, billiard tables, and gymnasium equipment. Main office in Chicago. Common paid 25 cents (plus 5 per cent stock) last year and sells around $28.

Stanley Warner Corp., one of the best movie theater companies, interested in Cinerama. Subsidiary manufacturers latex products. Offices are at 1585 Broadway, New York City. It paid $1 last year and sells around $16.

Manhattan Shirt Co., one of the largest manufacturers of shirts, for both men and women, and of other forms of clothing such as pajamas, neckwear, and sportswear. Head office is at 444 Madison Avenue, New York. Stock paid $1.85 last year and sells around $37.

McCall Corp., one of the leading publishers of fashion magazines; also controls Redbook. It operates a large dress-pattern business and does a large amount of printing for Reader's Digest, Newsweek, U. S. News, etc. McCall should benefit from a shorter work-week for women. It paid $1.20 last year and sells at about $21.

American News Company, large distributor of magazines, newspapers, and paper-covered books. It has valuable concessions at railroad, airplane, and bus terminals, serving tourists. Reading will increase with the shorter work-week. Headquarters are at 131 Varick Street, New York City. It paid $1.50 last year and sells at about $32.

"Do-It-Yourself" Business

All companies catering to the "do-it-yourself" trade should benefit from the shorter work-week. I especially have in mind the American Machine & Foundry Company, 261 Madison Avenue, New York City, and the Black & Decker Manufacturing Company, of Towson, Md. These have fitted up many of the "tool rooms" which have been built in the basements of houses and farms. Furthermore, American Machine & Foundry makes bowling alley equipment and is becoming an important factor in automation, guided missiles, and atomic-energy reactor equipment.

Another group which should benefit are companies which cater to the painting of walls of homes with rollers. My favorite corporation here is the Glidden Company of Cleveland, but there are many others.

If you want to benefit from all phases of the "do-it-yourself" movement, buy the stocks of the United Stores Corporation, having 460 stores retailing, at low prices, most of these products. I especially recommend the second preferred, at $10-$11, and the common around $5.

Although the stocks of these 10 companies should prosper better than most other companies during a business depression, yet no stocks will then be foolproof as to price.

You're Telling Me!

By William Ritt

The beautician goes on to say we should brush our noggin's at least 50 strokes a day. What—and wear out what little hair we have left?

See where the South African Medical Council wants to prevent use of herbs by witch doctors. That should put a hex on their business.

Vital Living Is One Cure For Emotional Fatigue

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Nervous fatigue is most noticeable on arising in the morning, giving the impression that rest does no good. The individual improves as the day passes, more so if something interesting occurs. In many instances, the condition is an expression of boredom, monotony, or absence of motivation.

Fatigue usually is associated with hard work or illness but the manifestations are the same whether the cause is physical or emotional. It is more acceptable, however, to complain about being tired than to gripe about doing the same thing day after day.

The housewife is tired of the routine of cleaning the same house, going to the same stores, attending PTA meetings, and playing canasta with the same old group. The salesman finds his customers and daily sales pitch just as monotonous. The psychiatrist is all in at night because he is bored listening to his patients' reminiscences day after day.

Some soft jobs taken by men and women without ambition are more tiring than a more difficult one that gives personal satisfaction. The same can be said of occupations that are tedious and dull.

Many workers are spry and full of pep even though their brain is active every minute of the day. The more psychic energy utilized, the more they are stimulated. Their source of energy is unlimited, demonstrating that mental work in itself does not cause unusual fatigue. The same can be said of a manual worker who thrives on a job well done.

This is a wonderful feeling. In my opinion, much of the world's unrest can be traced to the large number of uninteresting jobs, the encouragement of loafing, and lack of motivation.

The cure for emotional fatigue may lie in a change to new scenes, interests, and opportunities. If this does not bring improvement, a deep seated psychic disturbance may be present. These are the men and women who, consciously or unconsciously, have grasped physical exhaustion as a solution to their problems.

So long as they are weak and tired, they cannot be expected to work as hard as others. They represent promotion and additional responsibilities. Fatigue also accompanies and occasionally precedes a depression.

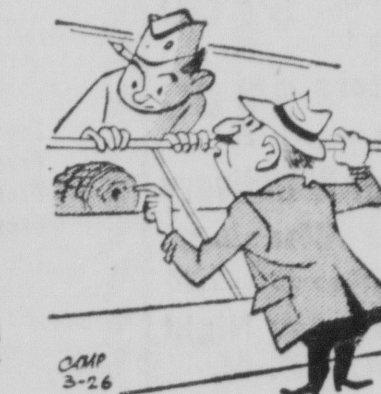

TOMORROW: Lipoid pneumonia.

LAY TERM

C. W. writes: How can weak kidneys be strengthened?

REPLY

I presume you mean frequent urination. "Our leaflet on urinary disturbances describes various problems along this line. It may be obtained by sending a stamped,

The purpose: To get away from the deadwood he currently must work with as a result of the seniority system in the civil service.

Pointing out that 2,000 employees represent only one-tenth of one per cent of the workers presently under civil service, Mr. Hoover declared that a good top executive should be able to save 10 times his pay. To attract able men of this type to the government service, he asserted that there should be as many as 6,100 executives in federal posts earning $20,000 a year or more—instead of the 633 now on the payroll.

The government replaces an average of 25 per cent of its 2.3 million employees every year. The cost of training replacements, and their salaries while learning, are figured at $1,500 for each new worker. It is in this area that Mr. Hoover is confident considerable savings are possible.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

They Can't Be Restored

The patient is dead. In the autopsy they found a sponge inside him. The fault was not the surgeon's; it was blamed on the nurse who did not count the sponges carefully. Now that we know why the patient died and who is responsible, will that bring him back to life?

Khrushchev's apology for 20,000,000 or some such figure who were starved to death in his native Ukraine does not help those who were exterminated there is no word of protest. In fact, Khrushchev was the hatchet man. True, had he protested, they might have been killed but history tells of many noble figures who stood before the cannons of tyranny and shouted, "Give me liberty or give me death."

If Khrushchev wanted to be convincing that this is a changed world and that better days have come, why does he not free the millions of so-called political prisoners, many of them of the middle and intellectual classes of the satellite countries who have been taken from their homes and families, deprived of their careers, buried in vast prison camps where they are engaged in slave labor? True, most of them were picked up by order of Beria, who acted for Stalin, whose object was to destroy any kind of independent leadership among the satellites. Many—in fact, most—of these prisoners were not charged, were never tried. They were simply picked up and moved to change the population pattern of an area.

Beria is dead. Anyone can kick his name around. It has no meaning. Khrushchev and his colleagues on the Presidium are alive. They have tremendous powers. They can release these poor souls from camps that are as wicked, if not worse, than any that Hitler's crew of madmen conceived. As long as these innocent men and women remain in these camps, Khrushchev's tears (four times he wept during his speech) make no impression. He can free those whose only crime has been that they were born in good families. And if the plan is to impress the British with Khrushchev's virtues, it can only be hoped that there will be those in Britain who will ask about these prisoners.

Let us not be confused by all this change of heart. Malenkov, for instance, was Stalin's secretary. He was the man who carried out Stalin's orders. He was named by Stalin as his heir. While Stalin lived, he was a man of extraordinary powers. He, as a member of the Presidium, is still a man of extraordinary powers. Are we to be told that the same man who carried out the madman's orders did not know that the madman was mad? What is Malenkov's excuse for carrying out Stalin's sadistic orders? He could have refused. He could have committed suicide. What is his moral basis for living, he who transmitted the orders to murder and kill?

And so, we are to turn a page. For nearly 30 years, the entire human race has witnessed and suffered from the schemes and tricks and obscenities of a madman entrenched in power. Against the evils he created, every nation has had to establish costly protections and defenses. Now, we are simply to turn a page in the book of history and say, it is all over. But neither of them has taken a single step to re-establish law and justice in his own country or assure the world that the onward march of the empire has been halted and that nations can live in peace. All the talk about the Geneva spirit has been accompanied by a blatant anti-Americanism encouraged by Nehru and his Babu, Krishna Menon.

As Khrushchev and Bulganin cursed and condemned the British a month ago, so they now fawn on the British. What kind of people are these who curse one day and lickspittle the next? Realists, some call them. Men without character, opportunists, triflers with other people's lives, would be a better description. Those who believe that a change has come over Russia need to present better proof than Khrushchev's speech denouncing Stalin. What is needed is a record of deeds, not long speeches interlarded with tears. Not one deed of friendship or decency is on the record.

WASHINGTON.

For the past week or so, every Western intelligence specialist has been working overtime analyzing the meaning of the Kremlin's denunciation of Joseph Stalin. By now, they have had time to digest the facts, and to reach conclusions.

Particular attention has been paid to the contents of the official Kremlin letter on Stalin, even now being read to hushed gatherings of Communist party members all over the Soviet Union. In some ways, the letter is more important than party boss Nikita Khrushchev's previous attack on Stalin. It represents the basic indictment of Stalin which the Kremlin is presenting to the Communist elite, and will no doubt soon present to the Soviet people and the world.

Four Basic Points

As far as is known, the complete text of this historic document is not yet available in the West. But its four basic points have been cabled to Washington and London. They are as follows:

First, Stalin's forced collectivization policy unnecessarily alienated the peasantry.

Second, the "doctor's plot" was fabricated by Stalin as the prelude to another general blood purge of Soviet officials.

Third, Stalin undermined Soviet military strength before the war, when he caused 5,000 Soviet officers to be executed.

Fourth, Stalin bungled the conduct of the war. Specifically, when he failed to heed the advice of his general staff at the time of the battle of the Kharkov Bulge, he was personally responsible for the destruction of 400,000 Soviet troops.

The letter is obviously more significant for what it omits than for what it includes. Stalin is attacked for the way he forced collectivization, not collectivization itself. He is not criticized for instituting the system of forced labor, for brutally depressing the standard of living.

Nervous fatigue is most noticeable on arising in the morning, giving the impression that rest does no good. The individual improves as the day passes, more so if something interesting occurs. In many instances, the condition is an expression of boredom, monotony, or absence of motivation.

Fatigue usually is associated with hard work or illness but the manifestations are the same whether the cause is physical or emotional. It is more acceptable, however, to complain about being tired than to gripe about doing the same thing day after day.

The housewife is tired of the routine of cleaning the same house, going to the same stores, attending PTA meetings, and playing canasta with the same old group. The salesman finds his customers and daily sales pitch just as monotonous. The psychiatrist is all in at night because he is bored listening to his patients' reminiscences day after day.

Some soft jobs taken by men and women without ambition are more tiring than a more difficult or for establishing the secret police. Nor is he attacked for such acts of foreign policy as the seizure of the Baltic states, the forced communization of the satellites, or the Korean War.

No Real Shift

The attack on Stalin represents, in short, no real shift from Stalinist doctrine and objectives. It implies only a change in methods. It also constitutes a sort of public promise to the bureaucracy, the Army elite, and the peasant, that they will not again be blindly purged, hounded to death, or starved. It certainly does not constitute a promise of the right of dissent, a fact underlined by the efficient repression of the riots in the Georgia Republic.

On this interpretation the best judges in Washington, London, and Moscow, are agreed. But this does not answer the question: Why was Stalin attacked frontally, and at this particular time?

The simplest answer is that the Soviet rulers have behaved like the children of a tyrannical and brutish parent, afraid for a long cism, but a man lying on a hospital bed who has been in the valley of the shadows and heard the beating of sable winds has a right to claim his own.

Most of my wisecracks became immediate currency and when they stop stealing them I'll know that I have lost my touch.

"Thaw shot the wrong architect." Every time a new theater, movie palace or exotic night club is dedicated there is always one character who shows up with the Olsen (Klieg) lights.

He waits for an appropriate moment when there's a lull in the foyer cackling and says: "Thaw shot the wrong architect."

I have heard it at the Radio City Music Hall, Roxy's on Seventh Avenue and earlier at the Capital Theater. I've heard it at the opening of the ziegfeld theater on Sixth Avenue and it is now being scaled down for cafeterias and supermarkets.

I know this is going to create a lot of comment and adverse criticism, but a man lying on a hospital bed who has been in the valley of the shadows and heard the beating of sable winds has a right to claim his own.

time to acknowledge, after the terrible old man was dead, how they had hated and feared him. When the acknowledgement of hatred came, it had to be public and frontal, as a common protection against the charges of deviationism.

If this theory is correct, the attack on Stalin is evidence of the confidence and cohesion of the ruling group. But there is also a minority theory that the denunciation of Stalin may be an outward expression of an inner convulsion in the ruling clique. This view derives largely from careful analysis of the speeches of Khrushchev and trade boss Anastas Mikoyan.

Khrushchev called flatly for a united front policy abroad, and for working for power through legal means. Mikoyan denounced precisely this policy as "reformism and revisionism"—two of the harshest and most dangerous words in the Soviet vocabulary.

And Mikoyan went on to lay heavy emphasis on the injustice of the Stalinist purges in the Ukraine in the 30s — when Khrushchev was Stalin's principle Ukrainian hatchetman.

Basic Doctrines The Same

To some of the experts, at least, Mikoyan's speech reads surprisingly like the kind of oblique knife-sticking which in the past has heralded the downfall of one or another of the Soviet oligarchs. But most of the specialists believe that Khrushchev is securely established as number one man.

In fact, the personal fate of such men as Khrushchev and Mikoyan does not greatly matter. What does matter is that the basic doctrines and objectives of the Kremlin remain, and will remain, the same until, to use Khrushchev's famous phrase, shrimps learn to whistle. The Kremlin's official letter of denunciation is, paradoxically, merely further evidence that this is so.

In the long run, automation may bring a shorter work-week; but the change will be slow. The rebuilding of a manufacturing plant to be self-operating is very expensive. Thousands of consolidations must take place before such revolutionary changes will come about. There, however, will be more opportunities for new companies which can start from the ground up with the very latest automatic machinery. However, my chief purpose this week is to suggest certain industries which should definitely benefit from a shorter work-week.

Leisure Beneficiaries

Best known is Spalding (A. G.) & Bros., one of the largest manufacturers of baseball, basketball, football, golf, tennis, and skiing products. Headquarters in Chicago, Mass. Last year their stock paid 50 cents (and 5 per cent stock) and now sells at about $19.

Brunswick-Balke-Collender, largest manufacturer of bowling alleys, billiard tables, and gymnasium equipment. Main office in Chicago. Common paid 25 cents (plus 5 per cent stock) last year and sells around $28.

Stanley Warner Corp., one of the best movie theater companies, interested in Cinerama. Subsidiary manufacturers latex products. Offices are at 1585 Broadway, New York City. It paid $1 last year and sells around $16.

Manhattan Shirt Co., one of the largest manufacturers of shirts, active in Washington and elsewhere, politically and otherwise. They are an important part of the contracting combine that got a billion-dollar contract to build U. S. naval and air bases in Spain. Power In Texas

And in Texas last month, their close friend Lt. Gov. Ben Ramsey was called before a state grand jury to answer questions about contributions to his own political campaign. Vernon Sanford, of the Texas Press Association, who handled some of Ramsey's advertising, was indicted. Ramsey, who was defended by Brown and Root's attorney, Everett Looney, was not indicted.

It was Senator Johnson who, last year, arranged for Lt. Gov. Ramsey to be Democratic national committeeman. At that time, Ramsey was considered Brown and Root's probable candidate for governor. Since the grand jury was called, he is not considered a likely candidate.

In view of this far-flung activity by one of the most powerful companies in the South, and in view of Senator Johnson's eloquent and oft-repeated views on the gas-lobby probe and on political contributions, it is important to examine Brown and Root's contributions to the leader of the Democratic party in the Senate and one of the most powerful figures in Washington.

Fortunately for the public, a record of Brown and Root's activities for Johnson has been carefully collected by the Internal Revenue Bureau. It made a thorough investigation of Brown and Root's taxes — until, suddenly, it was stopped.

It was stopped by President Roosevelt on January 14, 1944, after Lyndon Johnson, then a congressman, had called on Roosevelt January 13, in company with Alvin Wirtz, attorney for Brown and Root, and former undersecretary of the interior.

Roosevelt summoned Elmer Irey, assistant secretary of the treasury at 10 a. m., January 14, and on January 17, three days later, a special agent from Atlanta, Ga., was sent to Texas to quietly close the entire Brown and Root tax investigation.

Most Important Senate Business Is Election Contribution Reform

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — Probably the two most important pieces of unfinished business before the U. S. Senate today are:

1. The election reform bill regulating campaign contributions, and

2. The investigation of these contributions in connection with the recent gas bill battle.

Regarding the first, Sen. Lyndon Johnson, the able and powerful Democratic leader, does not want to record contributions to primary elections. Regarding the second, Mr. Johnson has admittedly maneuvered any investigation of the gas lobby out of the hands of Senator Hennings (D., Mo.) who planned a forthright probe, into the hands of a diluted and, so far, inactive Senate Committee.

In view of the importance of these two moves, it becomes important to examine the past relations of Senator Johnson with some of the most potent figures in the natural gas industry, including Brown and Root, the big Texas contractors who purchased the Big Inch and Little Inch pipelines from the government, and now operate them as Texas Eastern pipeline; and who also own Texas Eastern Production, producers of gas and oil.

Brown and Root have been the heaviest backers of Lyndon Johnson during his political career. He has used their private airplane even during the gas debate, to fly back to Texas. It was at the Middleburg, Va., home of George Brown that he suffered a heart attack last summer, and he visited at the Brown home on several weekends during the gas battle.

Brown and Root continue to be

I have recently obtained photostat copies of approximately 1,000 Treasury Department reports, letters, and exhibits in the Brown and Root-Lyndon Johnson case. They show that one device used to finance the Johnson campaign was to make out checks to employees of Victoria Gravel Company, a Brown and Root subsidiary, then use part of that money for campaign expenses.

For instance, on May 26, 1941, $5,000 was paid to J. O. Corwin Jr., by Victoria Gravel, and charged off as a business expense. Corwin took the check to Austin, home town of Lyndon Johnson, cashed it, and later stated under oath to Internal Revenue agents that he had mailed $2,500 of the money to Lyndon Johnson's campaign headquarters.

In another case, Victoria Gravel Company made out a check for $2,500 to Randolph Mills, an employee. He deposited it in his own bank on the same day, then withdrew it and turned it over to J. Frank Jungman, finance chairman of Johnson's campaign in Houston. Records of the bank, when checked by Internal Revenue agents, showed that Jungman, in turn, deposited it in the Second National Bank of Houston in the name of the Lyndon Johnson Club.

A long list of similar withdrawals were either proved or in the process of investigation when the heat was applied in Washington. In the end, the Brown and Root tax liability, previously estimated at $1,062,184.87 with a fraud penalty of $531,092.45, was scaled down and settled for $372,000.

are in a safe deposit box, available to any authorized Senate committee or any editor for personal inspection.

They tell a significant story and shed particular light on why Senator Johnson is not interested in having the public know about political contributions to primaries or having a Senate committee dig too deep into the gas lobby.

Senator Johnson has been confronted with the evidence in this case. His chief explanation is that ex-Gov. W. Lee O'Daniel, against whom Johnson was running for the Senate at the time, stirred up the tax probe of Brown and Root. Johnson admits that he called on President Roosevelt on January 13—it was a matter of newspaper record at that time—but claims he did not discuss the Brown and Root tax matter. The Treasury records give overwhelming testimony to the contrary, however.

Repeated efforts were made to reach George Brown of Brown and Root, but he did not take the telephone calls.

Basketball Rules Committee Makes Changes For 1956-57

Big Revision Centers About Goal Tending

High Schools Must Use 12-Foot Lane By 1957-58 Season

BY BOB GLASS

CHICAGO, MARCH 25 (INS)—The National Basketball Committee announced the adoption today of several rules changes for 1956-57 but admitted that "we have not yet found a way to stop the stalling type of game."

Tony Hinkle, head basketball coach at Butler University in Indianapolis and chairman of the committee, said that some changes were made "to hinder teams from using stalling methods" but added that experiments will be made to get the rule changed.

The committee, which wound up a three-day Chicago meeting, re-elected all of its officers including Hinkle as chairman for next year. Adopted for universal use (College, AAU, High Schools and YMCA) was a rule that the big Ten Conference experimented with this year. When an offensive team is making a free throw, only defensive men will be allowed in the alleys formerly known as the H and V alleys.

Starting with the 1956-1957 season, no player shooting a free throw or any player along the lane, may go over the line until after the ball has either hit the rim or the backboard.

Wide Free Throw Line

The free throw line will be widened from one inch to two inches. This was done, H. V. Porter, secretary of the committee, explained "for consistency." All other lines on the court are two inches wide. The free throw line also is one of four boundaries restricted by the three-second rule.

There will be a new restriction on the jump ball similar to the free throw. No player around the cylinder will be able to cross the line until after the ball is tapped.

One of the big revisions centers around goal tending. Previously, only a defensive team was penalized for violating a rule which prohibited a man from interfering with the flight of the ball toward the basket.

The new rule clearly states that "slapping at the ball in a downward position so as to help or guide the ball into the basket by an offensive player is prohibited."

"Dunk" Shot Legal

No player will be able to extend his hand above the ring of the basket either to deflect or guide the ball. This rule, however, does not throw out what is commonly known as the "dunk" shot.

An offensive player may extend his hand over the basket to "dunk" the ball without being penalized.

Another rule change will make mandatory that a player throwing in the ball from under his basket, must do so on either side of the 12-foot lane.

A major change was made in the five second rule and now it pertains to the dribbler as well as the man holding the ball. A man dribbling the ball will be penalized if he does so within a 15-foot area from either side of the center line for more than five seconds. In other words he will not be able to stay in one spot and dribble. He must move the ball.

The same five-second rule applies to an offensive man holding the ball. He will be penalized if he holds the ball for longer than five seconds no matter where he is standing.

This rule was made primarily to strengthen the officials hand when he is confronted by the stalling tactics of certain teams.

Stalling, however, per se, will not be ironed out at least for another year. Hinkle said that the rule which now refers to "responsibility for lack of action" will be reprinted in bold type. Hinkle added that as yet, the rule does not have teeth. He added "that it is up to the coaches to see that this type of game is not encouraged because under the present rules, the officials' hands are tied."

Adopt 12-Foot Lane

The 12-foot lane will be adopted universally by colleges and at the AAU level. High schools and YMCA groups will not have to comply until the 1957-1958 seasons. This was done to give builders a chance to change the courts.

Piedmont Loses To Barrackville In Final, 62-52

Marion Countians Annex "B" Crown

Piedmont High School is playing the role of "bridesmaid" for the second time in three years after having lost to Barrackville High School's Bisons from Marion County in the finals of the West Virginia Class "B", championship basketball tournament Saturday at Morgantown.

Coach William "Huck" Miers' Lions, who lost out to Pax High in the 1954 finals, dropped a 62-52 decision to Barrackville after winning 13 consecutive games. The Bisons had reached the state tournament finals for the second time, having lost out in the 1942 event.

Bill Blosser, former Fairmont State College athlete, completed his first season as coach at Barrackville and his Bisons wound up the season with a 22-3 record. Two defeats came at the hands of Fairview High, 1955 state champs, and another by University High, Morgantown, but in the Section 5 tournament Barrackville knocked off Fairview, 54-53.

Desegregation played a big part in Barrackville's success as the Bisons inherited five members of the Dunbar High School quint before the 1955-56 campaign got under way.

Piedmont led at the quarter, 16-12, but trailed 31-28 at intermission and 50-34 when the third period ended.

Gerald Wilson and Bill Koach packed the big scoring punch for Barrackville with 21 and 19 points while Capt. Curtis Guin collected 14. Clay Smith headed Piedmont with nine goals and 20 points and topped his season total to 644 in 28 games, 22 of which were victories for the Lions. Smith and Curtis Guin were named honorary captains of the all-tournament team.

Members of Barrackville's championship team are Ed Helmski, Bill Koach, Curtis Guin, Gerald Wilson, John Janicki, Roy Johnson, Charles Darcus, Freddie Hayes, Dick Bowman, Moses Guin and Milton Johnson. Lineups:

Gary Frisby was the "big gun" for St. Philip's with nine goals and 23 points to his credit. Leroy Henry paced the losers with eight baskets and 21 tallies.

Trailing 38-35, St. Philip's put the game on ice by outscoring Grace, 19 to 12 in the final stanza. Tyra Heads NIT All-Star Team

NEW YORK, March 25 (AP)—Charlie (Moose) Tyra, voted the most valuable player and who brought Louisville its first championship, tops the Associated Press National Invitation Basketball Tournament all-star team.

It was the 6-8 junior from Louisville whose rebounding and scoring kept pushing the second-seeded Cardinals toward the title. They posted a 93-80 championship victory over top-seeded Dayton Saturday afternoon.

With Tyra on the first five are All-American Si Green, who wasn't quite enough to keep defending champ Duquesne in the running; Phil Rallins, who also helped bring Louisville the title; Jim Paxson of Dayton, and little Jimmy Boethe, a 5-7 ball of fire for Xavier's out-manned but game Ohio Musketeers.

The champion Cardinals also landed Jerry Moreman and Jim Morgan on the second five, along with Kurt Engelbert of St. Joseph's of Philadelphia, which defeated St. Francis of Brooklyn 93-82 for third place; Dick Schneider of Xavier Ohio, and Dan Mannix of St. Francis.

For the second tournament in a row Maxwell went into the final round leading the field only to blow his chances on the late holes. Finsterwald shot a record 29 on the front nine today to take the lead at that point, but blew up on the back nine.

Dickinson's winning score and his first major professional victory was 64-72-67-69—272. Maxwell had 64-69-69-75—273. Finsterwald had 70-66-69-68—273.

The 28-year-old Dickinson started the final round in second place five strokes behind Maxwell. Both Maxwell, 26-year-old from Odessa, Tex., and Finsterwald, 29-year-old from Bedford Heights, Ohio, had a chance to tie Dickinson on the final hole. But both missed their birdie putts, Finsterwald's putt was about 15 feet and Maxwell's about five.

Basketball Rules Committee Makes Changes For 1956-57

Big Revision Centers About Goal Tending

High Schools Must Use 12-Foot Lane By 1957-58 Season

BY BOB GLASS

CHICAGO, MARCH 25—(INS)—The National Basketball Committee announced the adoption today of several rules changes for 1956-57 but admitted that "we have not yet found a way to stop the stalling type of game."

Tony Hinkle, head basketball coach at Butler University in Indianapolis and chairman of the committee, said that some changes were made "to hinder teams from using stalling methods" but added that experiments will be made to get the rule changed.

The committee, which wound up a three-day Chicago meeting, re-elected all of its officers including Hinkle as chairman for next year. Adopted for universal use (College, AAU, High Schools and YMCA) was a rule that the big Ten Conference experimented with this year. When an offensive team is making a free throw, only defensive men will be allowed in the key formerly known as the H and V alleys.

Starting with the 1956-1957 season, no player shooting a free throw or any player along the lane, may go over the line until after the ball has either hit the rim or the backboard.

Wide Free Throw Line

The free throw line will be widened from one inch to two inches. This was done, H. V. Porter, secretary of the committee, explained "for consistency." All other lines on the court are two inches wide. The free throw line also is one of four boundaries restricted by the three-second rule.

There will be a new restriction on the jump ball similar to the free throw. No player around the cylinder will be able to cross the line until after the ball is tapped. One of the big revisions centers around goal tending. Previously, only a defensive team was penalized for violating a rule which prohibited a man from interfering with the flight of the ball toward the basket.

The new rule clearly states that "slapping at the ball in a downward position so as to help or guide the ball into the basket by an offensive player is prohibited."

"Dunk" Shot Legal

No player will be able to extend his hand above the ring of the basket either to deflect or guide the ball. This rule, however, does not throw out what is commonly known as the "dunk" shot.

An offensive player may extend his hand over the basket to "dunk" the ball without being penalized. Another rule change will make mandatory that a player throwing in the ball from under his basket, must do so on either side of the 12-foot lane.

A major change was made in the five second rule and now it pertains to the dribbler as well as the man holding the ball. A man dribbling the ball will be penalized if he does so within a 15-foot area from either side of the center line for more than five seconds. In other words he will not be able to stay in one spot and dribble. He must move the ball.

The same five-second rule applies to an offensive man holding the ball. He will be penalized if he holds the ball for longer than five seconds no matter where he is standing.

This rule was made primarily to strengthen the officials hand when he is confronted by the stalling tactics of certain teams.

Stalling, however, per se, will not be ironed out at least for another year. Hinkle said that the rule which now refers to "responsibility for lack of action" will be reprinted in bold type. Hinkle added that as yet, the rule does not have teeth. He added "that it is up to the coaches to see that this type of game is not encouraged because under the present rules, the officials' hands are tied."

Adopt 12-Foot Lane

The 12-foot lane will be adopted universally by colleges and at the AAU level. High schools and YMCA groups will not have to comply until the 1957-1958 seasons. This was done to give builders a chance to change the courts.

Needles Becomes Derby Favorite

MIAMI, Fla., March 25 (AP)—Needles, speediest thoroughbred ever produced in Florida, will make his next appearance in the Kentucky Derby in May.

For his victory achieved in track record time of 1:48 3-5 over 13 other promising 3-year-olds, Needles earned $95,200 to boost his bankroll to $338,605, including $208,800 this winter.

Dino Lozzi's Count Chic was second and Calumet Farm's Pintor Lea third. All three are nominated for the Kentucky Derby, Preakness and Belmont Stakes.

St. Philip's Episcopal quint, which made its debut in the Sun Day School Basketball League this year, won the circuit's first flight championship on Saturday by defeating Grace Methodist in the playoff finals by the score of 54-50 on the "Y" court.

Gary Frisby was the "big gun" for St. Philip's with nine goals and 23 points to his credit. Leroy Henry paced the losers with eight baskets and 21 tallies.

Trailing 38-35, St. Philip's put the game on ice by outscoring Grace, 19 to 12 in the final stanza.

Tyra Heads NIT All-Star Team

NEW YORK, March 25 (AP)—Charlie (Moose) Tyra, voted the most valuable player and who brought Louisville its first championship, tops the Associated Press National Invitation Basketball Tournament all-star team.

It was the 6-8 junior from Louisville whose rebounding and scoring kept pushing the second-seeded Cardinals toward the title. They posted a 93-80 championship victory over top-seeded Dayton Saturday afternoon.

With Tyra on the first five are All-America St. Green, who wasn't quite enough to keep defending champ Duquesne in the running; Phil Rallins, who also helped bring Louisville the title; Jim Paxson of Dayton, and little Jimmy Boothe, a 5-7 ball of fire for Xavier's out-manned but game Ohio Musketeers.

The champion Cardinals also landed Jerry Moreman and Jim Morgan on the second five, along with Kurt Engelbert of St. Joseph's of Philadelphia, which defeated St. Francis of Brooklyn 93-82 for third place; Dick Schneider of Xavier Ohio, and Dan Mannix of St. Francis.

Piedmont Loses To Barrackville In Final, 62-52

Marion Countians Annex "B" Crown

Piedmont High School is playing the role of "bridesmaid" for the second time in three years after having lost to Barrackville High School's Bisons from Marion County in the finals of the West Virginia Class "B", championship basketball tournament Saturday at Morgantown.

Coach William "Huck" Miers' Lions, who lost out to Pax High in the 1954 finals, dropped a 62-52 decision to Barrackville after winning 13 consecutive games. The Bisons had reached the state tournament finals for the second time, having lost out in the 1942 event.

Bill Blosser, former Fairmont State College athlete, completed his first season as coach at Barrackville and his Bisons wound up the season with a 22-3 record. Two defeats came at the hands of Fairview High, 1955 state champs, and another by University High, Morgantown, but in the Section 5 tourney Barrackville knocked off Fairview, 54-53.

Desegregation played a big part in Barrackville's success as the Bisons inherited five members of the Dunbar High School quint before the 1955-56 campaign got under way.

Piedmont led at the quarter, 16-12, but trailed 31-28 at intermission and 50-34 when the third period ended.

Gerald Wilson and Bill Koach packed the big scoring punch for Barrackville with 21 and 19 points while Capt. Cutris Guin collected 14.

Clay Smith headed Piedmont with nine goals and 20 points and upped his season total to 644 in 28 games, 22 of which were victories for the Lions. Smith and Cutris Guin were named honorary co-captains of the all-tournament team.

Members of Barrackville's championship team are Ed Helms, Bill Koach, Curtis Guin, Gerald Wilson, John Janicki, Roy Johnson, Charles Darcus, Freddie Hayes, Dick Bowman, Moses Guin and Milton Johnson. Lineups:

Nashua will stand at stud in Kentucky after the summer racing season ends. He finished fifth in the Gulfstream Park Handicap, the worst showing of his career—on St. Patrick's Day.

Note Of Sadness Marks Auto Race

SEBRING, FLA., MARCH 25—(INS)—Road endurance champion Manuel Juan Fango of Argentina, celebrated his victory in the International Grand Prix auto race today, but a note of sadness was included.

Fango spent the day with his countryman Carlos Mendigoy of Buenos Aires who suffered a serious head injury Saturday night when his car struck a barrier along a treacherous turn on the 5.2 mile Sebring race course.

"He is my dear friend and countryman," Fango told newsmen through a friend after leaving the hospital, and added:

"My victory does not mean a thing if Carlos does not get well. Fango and co-driver Eugenio Castellotti, Italian champion, drove their 3.5 red Ferrari to a comparative easy victory in the 12-hour grueling for endurance test.

An estimated crowd of 25,000 persons jammed the runways along the race course.

WHO WAS TO BLAME?

A CORRESPONDENT writes: "The hand herewith cost us the top score in a match-point duplicate game, since we were considerably under average on this board. Please discuss the bidding and fix the blame between East and West."

The bidding at this table went:
East 1♣ South West North
1♣ 1♦ Dble. 1NT
Pass Pass 3♦ Pass

Still quoting: "West argued that East should have doubled North's one trump, while East insisted that West should have doubled instead of bidding three diamonds."

monds. East also stated that West's actual three-diamond bid was not forcing. Who was right, if either?"

An unbiased observer can scarcely fail to point a finger at West as the guilty party. His penalty double of one diamond (which, incidentally, was a rash bid on South's part) was obviously correct, particularly in view of the vulnerability, but West was not correct in his assertion that East should have doubled North's one trump, nor was he remotely correct in bidding three diamonds at his West's next turn. True, West could not double the one trump with a guarantee of success—it was barely conceivable that North might be able to run a long heart or spade suit—but if West himself did not want to risk a penalty double of one trump, then he certainly should have jump-raised to his partner's club suit instead of implying that his hand was good for nothing but a diamond contract.

If West had bid three clubs instead of three diamonds, East could have taken a chance on bidding three notrump, but as it was, East was helpless—and blameless.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:
is LONGFELLOW

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

DAGWOOD—I JUST FIGURED A WAY TO MAKE MY BUDGET BALANCE

ALL YOU HAVE TO DO IS GIVE ME FIVE DOLLARS MORE A WEEK

BUT IF I GIVE YOU FIVE DOLLARS MORE A WEEK, THEN MY BUDGET WON'T BALANCE

CAN I HELP IT IF YOU'RE NOT AS GOOD A BUSINESSMAN AS I AM?

BRICK BRADFORD

PEEDEE! YOU'LL FALL THROUGH THE OPEN DOOR!

HELP! NO ONE CAN HELP ME! STEADY, MILLIE, DON'T PANIC!

PEEDEE IS DROWNING IN THE DENSE ATMOSPHERE OF THIS PLANET! I HAVE TO GET HIM INSIDE! HE SHOULD HAVE PUT ON HIS SPACE-HELMET BEFORE OPENING THE PORT DOOR!

BUZ SAWYER

YOUNG LADY, I AND ALL THE ADMIRALS IN WASHINGTON, INFORMED YOU THAT FEMALES WEREN'T PERMITTED ON WARSHIPS AT SEA, YET YOU FLEW ABOARD ANYHOW.

BUT, CAPTAIN, IT WAS AN EMERGENCY! I WAS OUT OF FUEL.

AND NOW THAT I AM ABOARD, YOU WILL BE A DEAR AND LET ME WRITE A STORY, WON'T YOU?

NO, BY JUPITER! I'LL HAVE YOU TAKEN ASHORE! I'LL MAKE AN EXAMPLE OF YOU! I-I-I... YOU, MR. BOZE, LOOK UP THE REGULATIONS ON THIS.

AYE, AYE, SIR.

TEN MINUTES LATER...

WELL, CONFOUND IT, WHAT ARE THE REGULATIONS?

STRANGE!... I THOUGHT WE HAD REGULATIONS ON EVERYTHING, BUT I CAN'T SEEM TO FIND ANYTHING ABOUT WOMEN LANDING ON CARRIERS AT SEA.

PLEASE RECONSIDER MY PROPOSAL, SANDY. I WANT YOU FOR MY WIFE—UNDER ANY TERMS.

IF I SHOULD EVER ACCEPT, PAT, THERE WOULD BE NO "TERMS", AS YOU CALL IT—

IT WOULD BE ALL OR NOTHING. I HONESTLY DON'T KNOW IF I WANT TO REMARRY. LIVING ALONE HAS BECOME A HABIT—ALMOST A HAPPY ONE.

GOLLY, LITTLE PAT, IF YOU DIDN'T REALLY WANNA ASK ME TO GO RIDIN' WITH YOU, WHY DID YA DO IT???

THAT'S A GOOD QUESTION, ANNIE, BUT I HAVEN'T THE ANSWER—YET! JUST HANG ON—BECAUSE WE'RE GOING TO MOVE!!

I CAN'T STAND THIS ANY LONGER! I'VE GOT TO GO UP! HELP!

I CAN ALMOST TOUCH THE HATCH COVER—BUT WHAT GOOD WOULD THAT DO ME? WITH ONLY ONE ARM, I COULDN'T PULL MYSELF UP.

THE BODY'S BEING PICKED UP NOW. THE CHIEF THOUGHT YOU MIGHT LIKE TO VIEW IT.

WHO WAS TO BLAME?

A CORRESPONDENT writes: "The hand herewith cost us the top score in a match-point duplicate game, since we were considerably under average on this board. Please discuss the bidding and fix the blame between East and West."

School For Fire Experts Scheduled At University

COLLEGE PARK, Md., March 25 (AP)—Fire experts from 11 states and Canada will pick up a few more tricks of their firefighting trade at the University of Maryland next week.

The occasion is the fifth annual Short Course for Fire Inspectors, April 3 to April 6.

Robert C. Byrns, director of the University's Fire Service Extension, said that on each of the four days the short course will take up one aspect of the "increasingly complex fire safety picture."

The subjects are arson, fire protection, inspection techniques and special hazards.

The course is sponsored by the Maryland State Fire Marshal, Charles S. Jackson, along with the university.

Witnesses To Convene At Grafton School

CHARLESTON, W. Va., March 25 (AP)—Russell Hall, Charleston spokesman for the Jehovah's Witnesses, said his group has secured the Grafton High School auditorium for a convention April 6-8.

Last year, the Witnesses attempted to rent Charleston High School auditorium for a similar meeting but were turned down by the Kanawha County Board of Education on the ground it would violate the constitutional separation of church and state.

The group carried the case to the State Supreme Court and U.S. Supreme Court but lost both appeals.

Scientist Finds Scrolls In King Herod's Palace

BY ERIC GOTTGETREU JERUSALEM, Israeli Sector, March 25 (AP)—An Israeli archeologist reported today a new find which he said bore a similarity to the Dead Sea scrolls.

Dr. Yochanan Aharoni said a piece of pottery and a papyrus fragment, both inscribed in black ink with Hebrew letters "very similar to the Dead Sea scrolls," were found in newly excavated ruins of King Herod's palace.

The site is on the Rock of Massada on the southwestern shores of the Dead Sea.

The Dead Sea scrolls have been described by scholars as a find of deep significance tracing the early origins of Christianity.

Dr. Aharoni said the new find by an Israeli archeological expedition seems to be further confirmation of the age of the Dead Sea scrolls, which most scholars believe to have been written almost 2,000 years ago.

He recalled that the Massada fortress and King Herod's palace which topped it, were destroyed by the Romans towards the end of their anti-Jewish war in 73 A. D.

College Park, March 25 (AP)—"Back to College" week for mom is still three months off but plans are beginning to shape up already.

Officially, the June 18-23 week at College Park on the University of Maryland campus is known as Rural Women's Short Course. This will be the 30th year the university is sponsoring the capsule course tailored for women from Maryland's farms and small towns.

The course will include classes in homemaking, community living and world affairs. At the daily general assemblies, the women will hear such speakers as Mrs. George H. Davis, writer, religious educator and lecturer of Bettendorf, Iowa; Sgt. Aubrey S. Yawalski, of the traffic division of the Washington Police Department; and Earl L. Butz, assistant secretary of agriculture.

This year's theme is "Wider Horizons for Family Living."

The week-long course is supported by registration fees. Registration is handled in each county by the home demonstration agent.

Three Hospitalized In Separate Mishaps

Four area residents were injured, three being hospitalized, in separate accidents over the weekend.

Gordon Raley, 28, of near Finzel, was injured yesterday about 4:25 p. m. on Big Savage Mountain along U. S. Route 40 west of Frostburg, when the motorcycle he was driving collided with a truck.

He also sustained brush burns, cuts and contusions. Raley was admitted to the local hospital where his condition last night was reported as "fair."

Hit By Truck

Raley was reported to have been traveling west on Route 40 and had parked on the north shoulder of the highway. Police said he pulled out into the path of a pickup truck driven by Howard Helrick, 43, of Jennings, also traveling west.

Investigating Officer was Tfc. Charles DeWitt, of the Maryland State Police.

Frederick C. Dick, 39, of RD 1, city, was admitted to Memorial Hospital early yesterday morning with injuries sustained in an auto crash near Oldtown.

He suffered a fractured jaw and a possible fractured skull. His condition last night was reported as "satisfactory." Full details of the accident were not learned. His brother also was in the accident and apparently was uninjured. Tfc. J. F. Browning of the Maryland State Police investigated.

In the other accident, Mrs. Mary Landis, 33, of Ellerslie, and her nine-year-old daughter, Linda Gay, were injured Saturday when a car operated by Dale Eugene Landis, 33, husband and father of the victims collided with a car driven by Howard C. Piper, 33, of Ellerslie.

Mrs. Landis, who is a patient in Memorial Hospital, suffered a wrenched back and nose lacerations and is reported in "satisfactory" condition.

Her daughter received lacerations of the right cheek and right eye and was treated.

State Police said the Piper vehicle was westbound on Route 35, approximately one mile north of Corrigansville and had slowed down to allow another car to make a turn onto Creek Road.

Landis reportedly passed a car he was following and hit the Piper car head-on.

Investigating officer was Trooper Lindberg V. Cook.

Schools Plan Easter Luncheon

Cafeterias in Allegany County public schools are making preparations to serve at least 12,000 meals tomorrow when the special Easter luncheon will be served, according to Mrs. Gladys M. Eaton, supervisor of cafeterias.

Some 3,720 pounds of canned ham has been distributed to the various cafeterias. The suggested menu calls for fruit juice, baked ham, sweet potato balls or parsleyed white potatoes, spring salad, roll and butter, Easter cake and milk.

Mrs. Eaton has suggested that the cooks bake the ham in the whole piece. They then should be sliced after cooling. This may be done the day before serving. They then should be reheated for the Easter meal.

The Easter cake may be sheet or cup cakes with pastel colored icing and a jelly bean in the center of each serving. A pinch of coconut might make a nest for the jelly bean, Mrs. Eaton says.

Lions To Meet

The weekly meeting of the Cumberland Lions Club will be held Wednesday at 12:15 p. m. in the Community Room of the YMCA. The Fort Hill High School, under the direction of Miss Anetta Yates, will present a program of Easter music.

Presidential Choice Narrow For County Voters May 7

When Allegany County voters go to the polls May 7 they will have no clear-cut choice to make between rival aspirants for the nomination for President of the United States.

On the Republican side, the voter must either turn down the voting pointer marked 1 A, which would be a vote for President Eisenhower, or 1 B, which would be a vote for an uncommitted state delegation to the National Convention.

Democrats, similarly, must pull either voting pointer 1 D, which is a vote for Senator Estes Kefauver, or 1 E, an uncommitted delegation. Four years ago when Democrats of Maryland had the same choice they gave 137,885 votes to Kefauver and only 46,361 for an uncommitted delegation. Kefauver carried this county 2,184 to 603.

Beall, McKeldin To Open Martin's Mountain Project

Reconstruction Will Begin April 3

Senator J. Glenn Beall will be master of ceremonies at a groundbreaking ceremony on Martins Mountain at noon Tuesday, April 3, which will mark the beginning of reconstruction of U. S. Route 40 in Allegany County.

He will introduce Governor McKeldin, who in turn will operate power equipment commencing the project. The first phase of the work calls for the rebuilding of 2½ miles of Route 40 from a point on the west slope near the top of the mountain down the east slope.

The side of the groundbreaking will be on Route 40 about 1½ miles east of the crest of the mountain. The State Roads Commission has awarded the contract to the Bero Construction Corporation of Hampton, Va., at its low bid of $1,149,065. The state's 12-year program of road rehabilitation includes the rebuilding of Route 40 from Siding Hill westward to Cumberland, where it will connect with the new Cumberland Expressway.

The next project scheduled in the program is the building of a bridge on a relocation of Route 40 over Town Creek, about 14 miles east of Cumberland. The span will be 200 feet long and will have a 30-foot roadway. Bids on this contract will be received this week.

The rebuilding of the highway on the west slope of Polish Mountain, a project similar to the Siding Hill improvement, is scheduled to begin this summer.

Principals Will Hear Address By Inventor

All of Allegany County's high school principals will be in Baltimore April 12 to hear Dr. Charles F. Kettering, eminent engineer, inventor and research consultant, according to Superintendent of Schools Ralph R. Webster.

High school principals from all 23 Maryland counties and Baltimore city are to meet with the staff of the State Department of Education April 12 and 13 at the Southern Hotel in Baltimore to discuss the high school curriculum in the light of today's needs.

Dr. Kettering's address will be at the dinner meeting on the first day of the two-day session. Dr. Kettering's achievements have brought him fame throughout the world. Work in business, in industry and on the farm is easier because of his scientific research.

He electrified the cash register, credit systems and accounting machines; he invented automotive starting—the self starter, lighting and ignition systems; he invented and marketed the small generating unit for farm use; he originated and guided research resulting in higher octane gasoline, including tetraethyl lead, extraction of bromine from sea water, high compression automobile engines and improved Diesel engines.

For 27 years Dr. Kettering was vice president of General Motors and general manager of the Research Laboratories Division. Although now retired he is serving as research consultant to the company and as director. He is president of the Thomas A. Edison Foundation and director of the Sloan-Kettering Institute for Cancer Research. A graduate of Ohio University with degrees of electrical engineer in mechanical engineering and doctor of engineering, he holds honorary degrees from 29 other institutions.

Principals scheduled to attend are Raymond O. McCullough, Allegany; Earl F. Brain, Beall Elementary; Wayne W. Hill, Beall High; Dr. W. Ardell Haines, Bruce; Earle L. Bracey, Carver; Miss Myra M. Nefflen, Cresaptown; Mrs. Elsie Hill Roland, Flintstone; Victor D. Heisey, Fort Hill; Alfred H. Benna, Mt. Savage; J. Hubert Radcliffe, Oldtown; Miss Lula M. Blonskey, Pennsylvania Avenue, and Jack A. Petry, Valley.

Today's Sermonette

Today's sermonette is a digest of a sermon prepared by Rev. Norris Lee Cook, assistant pastor of First Presbyterian Church. The sermon digests are being prepared through the cooperation of the Cumberland Ministerial Association.

Measure Of Success

By REV. NORRIS LEE COOK

The little group came down the dusty road into the city. The Man on the donkey; the men walking behind. The people lining the road threw their cloaks before Him. They laid palm branches in His path. Their cries filled the air:

"Hosanna to the son of David! Blessed be he who comes in the name of the Lord! Hosanna in the highest."

This was a day of mass adoration as Jesus entered triumphantly into the city of Jerusalem. All of us are familiar with mass adoration as we watch television personalities and the applause meters register approval or disapproval. If applause and public approval are the measures of greatness then this was the greatest day in the life of Jesus.

This man Jesus was someone they had been looking for. For some He was the promised Messiah, the one who would free Israel; but to only a few of these, the one who would free their hearts, to others He was a prophet ushering in a holy season. But to most He was a man who supposedly performed miracles; they came to see the show.

If only they could have realized the true meaning of the words they cried, "Hosanna: 'Help us we pray.' But they did not. They were not looking for help. They were looking for a great miracle that would end all of their worries here and now.

Jesus realized this when He said: "Would that even today you knew the things that make for peace." But now they are hid from your eyes." This day was not a testimonial to Jesus.

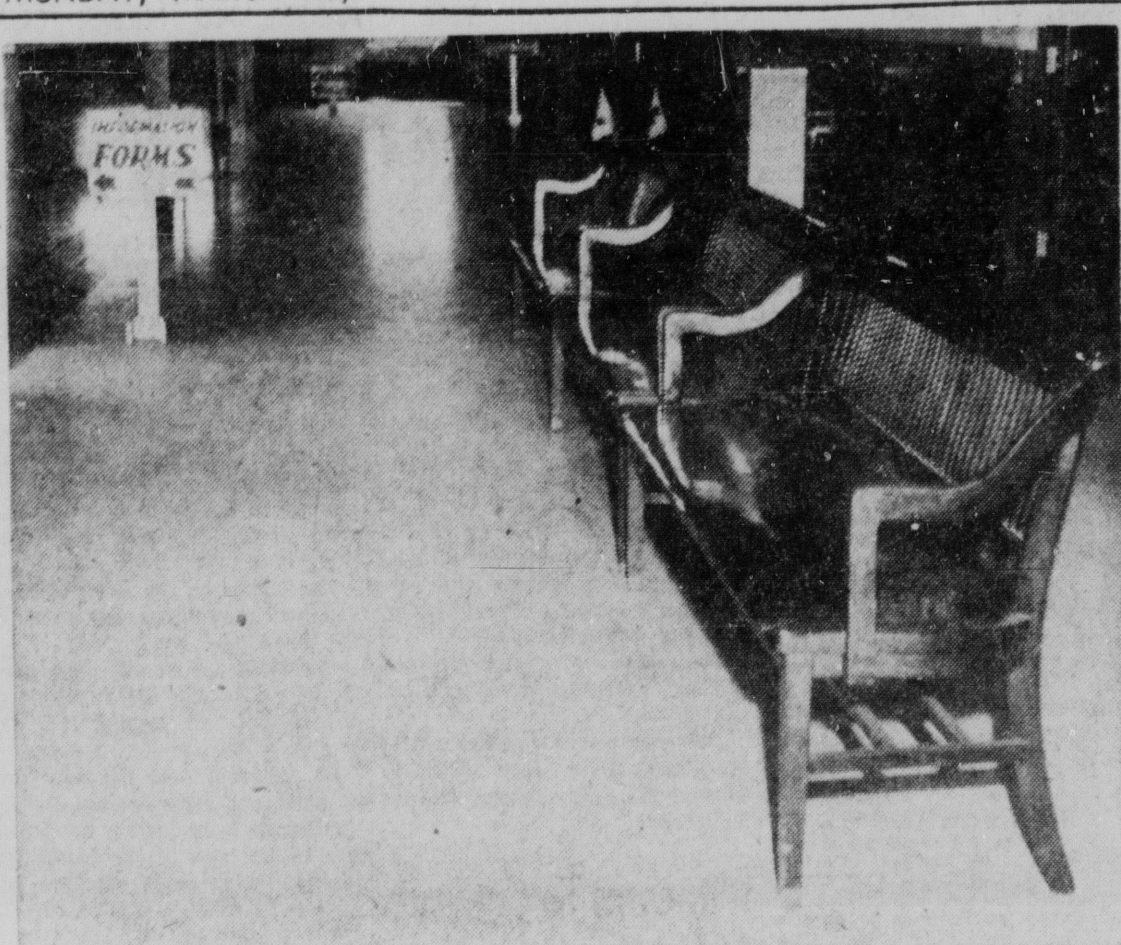

It was a monument to the fickleness of man. He looked for peace in a miracle and did not find it. So he turned against the source of all peace. But had he looked inside himself and searched out his own relationship to the one he was praising he would have found what he was seeking.

The greatness of Christ's life lies not in miraculous acts but in the calm inner relationship He had with the Father. A oneness that was revealed to man through Jesus' everyday love for all mankind.

The message of Palm Sunday is a message of Peace to our hearts as it speaks of our potential oneness with God. It is also a lesson in greatness. Lives are not judged a success by the applause of men or honors bestowed.

If this were so, the life of Jesus was a failure; for the praises of one day were the jeers of the next. The measure of ultimate success in life lies in our inner relationship with God. This oneness must show in our daily love for our brother man.

Let us live as He lived; find our peace as He did; in lives dedicated in service to the Father. Amen.

Tax Business Slumps

The long deserted corridor on the second floor of the Post Office Building illustrates the lack of business at the U. S. income tax office. The benches are placed in the hall every year in anticipation of the overflow crowds which always visit the office for help with returns. The rush has failed to materialize this year, although the April 16 deadline is just three weeks from today. Tax officials here are urging taxpayers to file as soon as possible in order to beat the last-minute rush.

Registration Visits Planned To Four Towns

Touring registrars for the Allegany County Board of Election Supervisors will visit four more communities this week as they round up prospective new voters for the coming May 7 primary election.

Because of the observance of Maryland Day today and Good Friday on Friday there will be only three days of special registration away from the Court House this week.

Tomorrow from 1 until 4 p. m. and again from 6 until 9 p. m. they will sit at Eckhart School. Wednesday the same schedule will be observed at Cresaptown School. Thursday the registrars will be at the Ellerslie Community Building from 1 until 4 p. m. and at the Corrigansville Fire Hall from 6 until 9 p. m.

Persons who will have reached their 21st birthday and will have lived in Allegany County one year before November 6 may register now and vote in the primary election. Those whose names were stricken off the books for failure to re-register. Registrars are sitting each day except holidays from 9 a. m. until 4 p. m. in the Court House basement and from 9 a. m. until noon on Saturdays. April 7 is the registration deadline for the primary election.

Last Friday the touring registrars signed up eight more prospective voters. Three Republicans registered at Barton and three Democrats and two Republicans at Midland.

Rawlings Woman Marks 90th Birthday Today

By CHARLES H. KELLY
News Staff Writer

Living to be of a ripe old age apparently runs in the family of Mrs. Cecelia Ellen Phillips of Rawlings, who will observe her 90th birthday today.

Her grandfather lived to be 111 years of age and her grandmother lived to be 105. A quiet family get-together is planned for one of Rawlings' oldest residents, according to a son, A. M. Phillips, with whom she lives.

Mrs. Phillips has been residing in Rawlings for the past 19 months and had moved there from Arlington, Va., where she lived with a daughter, Mrs. Paul Goff.

Her son said she suffered a stroke about four years ago and is now confined to a wheelchair. However, she is quite alert and gets much enjoyment listening to the radio.

No elaborate plans have been made for the observance of her 90th birthday, he added. A native of Barbour County (then Virginia), Mrs. Phillips was born before West Virginia was a state of the Union.

She spent her early life on a farm in that section of West Virginia and married John Phillips, who was a merchant in Hambleton, W. Va., for some 30 years and also had stores in other West Virginia communities. He died 28 years ago.

Mrs. Phillips is a member of the Methodist Church. Besides her son in Rawlings, she has another son, W. H. Phillips, of near Cumberland and also five daughters besides Mrs. Goff.

They are Mrs. Earsa Westfall, of Baltimore; Mrs. Florence Pennington, Hambleton; Mrs. Lora Mortimer, Michigan; Mrs. Ethel Horton, who lives on a farm near Washington; and Mrs. Audry Barr, of Arlington.

Two of Mrs. Phillips' sisters are still living, Mrs. O. L. Cross, of near Parsons, and Mrs. May Phillips, of Parsons.

Mrs. Phillips has about 40 grandchildren and a number of great-grandchildren.

Youth Arrested In Stabbing

A 15-year-old Negro youth was arrested by City Police yesterday evening for action of Juvenile Court in connection with the stabbing of a 15-year-old white boy Saturday.

Raymond Vanetta, 455 Bond Street, told police that as he was walking up Baltimore Avenue on Saturday evening, he "had words" with three Negroes driving by.

He said he turned off Baltimore Avenue through an alley between Fulton and Glenn streets. The car followed him, and as it passed close to him one of the occupants reached out and cut him in the back with a knife, he said.

Vanetta was treated at Sacred Heart Hospital for a laceration of the back that took eight stitches to close. When questioned last night by Sgt. Clarence Roby and Officer E. Gordon Hite, Vanetta changed his story, saying the knife occurred outside Central YMCA after he and the Negro boy reportedly "had words."

The knife used in the stabbing was reported to have been thrown into Wills Creek off the Baltimore Street bridge.

The alleged assailant was picked up by Officers Carl Williams and Walter Dennison, and was released in his mother's custody.

Floyd W. Bartlett Is Home On Leave

Floyd W. Bartlett, first-class yeoman in the Navy, is spending a 14-day leave here with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Bartlett, 1111 Virginia Avenue, prior to attending an advanced secretarial school for 16 weeks at Bainbridge.

Bartlett entered the Navy in 1943 shortly after graduating from Allegany High School. He was assigned to the attack carrier Randolph and will return to that ship upon completion of his special schooling.

During his naval career, Bartlett has served aboard aircraft carriers, amphibious craft and cargo ships. During World War II he participated in 15 amphibious landings in the Pacific. In 1951-53 he spent two years in Germany and England.

Senate Contest Warms Up; New Lines Are Drawn

Tydings, Mahoney Claim Reinforcements

(By The Associated Press)

The senatorial race in Maryland continued to warm up during the weekend with campaign action popping up at several places.

These were the developments: Democrat George P. Mahoney picked up formal endorsement by Baltimore City's 2d Legislative District Democratic organization yesterday, and endorsement by two Baltimore area Democratic clubs—Mount Royal in the city and the Baltimore County Independent Democratic Club.

Saturday, he got strong support in Baltimore's 5th District. Several party leaders announced they were backing him, including House of Delegates Speaker John C. Lubner and State Sen. Philip H. Goodman.

In the 2d District organizations, prominent members endorsing Mahoney included Dels. Joseph V. Mach, Thomas H. Hedrick and Joseph A. Urban, former delegates John W. Valis and Thomas McKewen Jr., and former State Sen. Hubert P. Barton.

Former U. S. Sen. Millard E. Tydings, Mahoney's chief rival for the nomination, was endorsed by Leroy W. Preston, former State senator and influential "independent" Democrat. Preston is also from the 5th Legislative District where Mahoney forces announced gains.

Meanwhile, a group of Montgomery County Democratic precinct chairman voted to push the Tydings effort. And in Western Maryland, Democrats opened a headquarters at Cumberland to spur the Mahoney candidacy in that area.

Tydings also received the endorsement Sunday of the Delawatt organization, the dominant faction in Democratic politics in South Baltimore's 6th Legislative District.

The endorsement named Tydings as the only candidate who "possesses the experience, the qualifications, the ability and the understanding to measure up successfully to the competence required for a man to represent the people of the State of Maryland in the United States Senate."

Among those signing the endorsement were State Sen. George W. Della, former State Sen. Joseph M. Wyatt, three city councilmen, three State Central Committee members, and four members of the House of Delegates.

Candidates On Tour

As for the two adversaries they were trying to build their political fences elsewhere. Tydings trooped

Milk Production Shows Decline

For the first time in three years both the average milk and butterfat production went down in the Potomac Valley Dairy Herd Improvement Association in the year which ended last July.

That disturbing report interfered with the general pleasantries which prevailed Thursday night at the association's annual meeting at the Clarysville Inn.

Average annual production in pounds of milk dropped from 7,934 to 7,721, the butterfat percentage dropped from 4.07 to 4.03 and the butterfat average dropped from 322.8 to 311.3 pounds. John R. Schabinger, dairy specialist at the University of Maryland, who attended the dinner meeting, was unable to offer an explanation, although he said a dry spell during the 12-month period may have been responsible.

C. O. and Elizabeth Miller of Midland received an award for having the herd with the highest average milk production in the past year.

All officers were re-elected. They are John T. Mason, president; Harry E. Miller, secretary-treasurer; Lloyd Wade, Charles Brinker and J. G. Shumaker, trustees, James H. Weimer was elected the association's delegate to all state DHIA meetings.

The association will hold a workshop on production records Tuesday evening, April 10, in the office of County Agent Joseph M. Steger in the Court House.

Teen-Agers Face Hearing Wednesday

Four teen-agers have been arrested by City Police and released in the custody of their parents in connection with the unauthorized use of an auto.

They will be given a hearing on Wednesday at 10 a. m. in Juvenile Court.

Beall Cites Western Md. Progress In N.Y. Speech

The progress of Western Maryland was cited by Senator J. Glenn Beall in an address at the annual Founders Day Banquet of the Maryland Society of New York, Friday night.

Beall pointed out that "a $100,000 power plant, a $40,000,000 glass plant, and a $25,000,000 government building are indicative of how the section is progressing."

In speaking of the Western Maryland area Beall traced some of its history, discussed recent innovations, and spoke of its future.

He also stressed the variety of changes which are occurring in the area, with some regions luring large numbers of vacationists, while others are attracting new industries and pushing expansion. Concerning the latter developments, he spoke specifically of an $8,000,000 railroad expansion plan. "In spite of all the things that are happening," he said, "there is one thing that will always be the same — the spirit of the Free State of Maryland."

Tax Business Slumps

The long deserted corridor on the second floor of the Post Office Building illustrates the lack of business at the U. S. income tax office. The benches are placed in the hall every year in anticipation of the overflow crowds which always visit the office for help with returns. The rush has failed to materialize this year, although the April 16 deadline is just three weeks from today. Tax officials here are urging taxpayers to file as soon as possible in order to beat the last-minute rush.

Registration Visits Planned To Four Towns

Touring registrars for the Allegany County Board of Election Supervisors will visit four more communities this week as they round up prospective new voters for the coming May 7 primary election.

Because of the observance of Maryland Day today and Good Friday on Friday there will be only three days of special registration away from the Court House this week.

Tomorrow from 1 until 4 p. m. and again from 6 until 9 p. m. they will sit at Eckhart School. Wednesday the same schedule will be observed at Cresaptown School. Thursday the registrars will be at the Ellerslie Community Building from 1 until 4 p. m. and at the Corrigville Fire Hall from 6 until 9 p. m.

Persons who will have reached their 21st birthday and will have lived in Allegany County one year before November 6 may register now and vote in the primary election. Those whose names were stricken off the books for failure to re-register. Registrars are sitting each day except holidays from 9 a. m. until 4 p. m.
